

“Since 05.45 h fire has now been returned”

A different kind of reckoning, by Kurzer

(initially published in September 2013 in German in three parts on lupocattivoblog.com)

(Revised and edited in April 2016)

Translator’s Preface

Dear readers

This essay was originally published in three parts on the German web-blog lupocattivoblog.com on 1 September 2013, and revised and edited in April 2016. You will find many links to documents and books available on the internet and we were able to find the majority of the content in English. Some links however, refer to content which is only available in German, but in case you master that language it is certainly worth digging into.

For the most part this essay deals with proven historical facts, offers valid sources of verification, and some of them are truly astonishing, since they do not at all match the narrative usually presented by media or in education at present times.

Since part of the content is very much related to certain current German topics, a few parts needed some minor tweaking, and further explanation by the translator, which the author gave his kind permission for. Part of the discussion prior to publishing this essay in English also was the publishing format, and it was decided to keep it more or less the way it was originally published on lupocattivoblog.com.

You’re about to face what the author calls “the researchable level of knowledge”, which in some cases might certainly be perceived as quite challenging. Still we ask you to be open-minded and take a chance on reconsidering your personal historical perspective and draw your own conclusions as to what this essay is telling you, and the impact this knowledge you’re about to gain might have for you personally and for the world today in general.

Take your time and enjoy this incredible piece by “Kurzer”.

By Maria Lourdes

Quote from Hitler’s speech on September 1st 1939:

»Last night, for the first time, Poland fired on our territory with regular soldiers. Since 05.45 h fire has now been returned. And from now on bombs will be retaliated by bombs. One who fights with poison will be fought with poison gas. Who diverges from the rules of humane warfare cannot expect from us to do other than taking the same step. I will continue this fight, no matter against whom, until the safety of the Reich and its rights are ensured.«

In his article „Since 05.45 h fire has now been returned” our blog-commentator “Kurzer” investigates the historical narrative about Hitler-Germany, High Finance, psychology of the masses and other legacies.

He encounters lies, fraud and errors of nameable German and foreign Hitler-biographers, chroniclers and historians. Numerous examples document how verifiable facts have been altered and fitted into a predefined narrative. Legends, conjectures and allegations, in parts perverting historical events, are compared with actual historical facts.

The exposure of those adjusted truths is as much intriguing as the consequential recognition. Is there a need for corrections on the historical narrative? Yes, says Maria Lourdes with appreciation for “Kurzer’s” elaboration.

Note: Gentle reader, you are facing a long essay in three parts. I would think a rainy Sunday afternoon would be ideal to take your time for this - it's absolutely worth reading!

“Since 05.45 h fire has now been returned”
A different kind of reckoning

Part 1

By Kurzer

For Nikki and Charly

- „You shall believe in Germany’s future, in the resurrection of your people. Despite everything that happened, never let one steal your belief. And you shall act as if the destiny of all German things depend upon you, and the responsibility is yours alone.” Albert Matthai
- “It’s easier to believe a lie that one has heard a thousand times, than to believe a fact that one has never heard before.” Robert Lynd
- “The past is more important than the present. He who controls the past, controls the future.” George Orwell

»Germany – Through smoke from the chimney stacks and exhaust fumes, over menu cards and travel brochures, let me tell you that I love you, Germany. You have been terribly mutilated and bound, but for the worst of it, in all your misery they have dressed you up like a jester, and tied disgrace around your neck. Now you have to dance to the piping of Euro and Dollar. You, taunted and miserable, mocked and scorned, bespangled and adorned with thorns, let me tell you: I love you.

Not only where you are clean, in your woods, on your mountains and upon your untouched coasts, or in the eyes of those devoted to you – not only there is where I love you. I also love you where deafening noise is forced upon you – home of the silence –, and also where you – home of philosophers – are deprived of your spirit, and also where you – home of the courage – are made a coward, there, where you are the most ashamed of yourself.

Look, with you we will bear it all, search for the lost crown, and give it back to you with deepest awe. With you we will never be alone - with us you shall forget the tears. In the hour of your abject misery, barely concealed by neon and chrome, those hit by your misery the hardest are with you. They love you, Germany. To others you might appear disgraceful and small, minor and spoiled – to us you are father and mother at the same time. May our love be solace for you. There’s nothing we have to forgive you for, forgive us for being too weak to break your chains and burn the trumpery surrounding you. Gift us the power of your eternity, we will give everything that’s has been left for us. Because we love you, Germany.«

Konrad Windisch

Learning from history...

...that’s what all those “enlightened” rulers of the world confront mankind with over and over again, especially us Germans. While Napoleon defined history as the summary of lies agreed upon, someone should really explain to us, which lie we’re supposed to learn from. But it gets really interesting with a statement made by Walter Lippmann (1889-1974, American journalist, chief editor of “New York World”, correspondent of the “New York Herald Tribune”, his essays were occasionally published in over 250 newspapers):

»A war is only lost when one’s own territory is occupied by the enemy, the leading class of the defeated people is convicted in war crime trials and the defeated are subject to a reeducation-process. An obvious means of that is to implant the victor’s view into the minds of the defeated. It’s of decisive importance to transfer the 'moral categories' of the victor's wartime propaganda into the consciousness of the defeated. Only when wartime propaganda has found its way into the history books of the defeated and is believed by succeeding generations, only then the reeducation can be seen as successful.»

The following essay will deal with the revelation of this kind of propaganda.

It's totally clear to me that anyone who dares to deal with this complex issue will immediately be placed in the corner of conspiracy theorists, anti-Semites, and racists... And while mankind is being fed with countless fairytales, on the other hand it's being told that there is no single truth and if so, it's that complicated, only experts understand it. As I've been told by a pre-eminent scientist in his field, experts are people that have no clue... on a high level.

Very good examples are those experts who, back in the 1990s beyond all common sense, sold us the Euro as the peacemaking project for the future. Just compare this assertion with the conditions we're facing today.

The spicy aspect of the statement, that there be no truth at all, is the fact that we Germans, as a variant of this not existing truth, are to believe in it by law.

Before I move on let me make a general remark:

The author of this essay concurs with the world view of Hans-im-Glück [a chat-forum-member], who presented his view as follows:

»...God IS with us - as long as we open ourselves up to him. Whatever one might describe or visualise as God - there is an always operating regulative thought - everything is oscillating and Burkhard Heim had found the physical explanation for consciousness with his calculations on the 12-dimensional universe - fortunately he didn't publish his thoughts for decades - no one would have allowed him to think his theory through to the end - it's the true revolution in science - folks, read or check Illobrand von Ludwiger on Youtube, or directly search for Heim - physics prove that God (or All-THERE-IS) has organised this world in a meaningful way - at any time and forever.

Which is the deeper reason, why all those power games and the suppressions by the 'Olympians' and their henchmen, will in the end turn out to be a pyrrhic victory - they're not in tune with the organisational principles of nature / the universe.

Love, empathy, joy, devotion, aso. are the true forces - everything contradicting that, does not have a real future. Follow your heart and you will live abundantly and joyful - overcome your fear and open your heart to the true almightiness...«

17 years ago I had a key moment when I realized, that man is a spiritual being, making an experience of the material kind. We live in a cosmos (an order) of clearly visible regularities. Parts of these are the law of attraction, the law of cause and effect, as well as the law of reincarnation, of course. These laws are very well explained in this superbe book: HERE in the chapter called: Geheim1 [in German].

For me personally, the realization of this experienceable truth resulted in never being sick again - not even for a single day - from that time on. We have a matrix for the absolute perfect and healthy body on a spiritual level. Sickness occurs due to the only real "sin", our segregation from God's creation.

As soon as we realise this, and simply know from the heart who we really are, we will overcome our fears. And even more than money, fear is the most powerful weapon of the Dark Powers. They exist from draining that energy from mankind, therefore we just need to stop being fearful. Constantly people live in fear of losing their job, getting sick, of dying, terror, natural disasters, of being unable to pay the next instalment, and so forth, and from dawn till dusk "system experts" keep blaring new threats to keep this going. But not for much longer.

We currently experience the end of a Dark Age, in which the fallen souls (including us) start becoming aware of their true origin. Every human being is a thought of God, no matter what colour or race. And according to the German Horst Mahler, peoples too are "thoughts of God on their way to themselves". It's the state of their spiritual evolution, their consequent perception of morality and justice, and not least their language and culture, that connect these peoples (soul groups). There is no room for high or humble.

Someone who has internalised this conception of the world can only be totally unfamiliar with the so-called racism and hatred on peoples. The only true racists are those fallen angels that see themselves as the "chosen ones" to destroy all other peoples, in the name of their God (Satan/Jahveh), and bring war and chaos to the world in the name of "democracy" and "human rights". But even they are a part of God's creation and will sooner or later realise their mistaking. This is why every soul was given a free will.

In general there's only one important decision we will have to make in life: Do we want to continue to diverge from our true destiny – our divinity –, or do we want to return into the true light. One who decided to do the last can be stopped by noone. Nothing of what I'm about to present here claims to be the final truth. But there is a thing I call "the researchable level of knowledge" and everybody should try hard to get to the bottom of it. And if anyone can prove me wrong, feel free, you're welcome to do so.

The following elaboration will frequently refer to my comments posted on the website lupocattivoblog.com.

Seeking the truth is like opening the Russian Matryoshka Doll: you reveal one layer of lies, but still have a long way ahead of you to the core. But that shouldn't stop you from digging deeper. The assertion of that being associated with radical right-wing ideas, and/or that already the Nazis had argued that way, is particularly popular in the current system as a response to an inconvenient truth.

But an assertion is either true or false. To claim that an otherwise conclusive and correct assertion cannot be right, because of the above said being applicable, means putting a ban on thinking. One can experience it over and over again in real life: you get to a certain topic and your – until that moment – friendly and highly intelligent conversational partner totally freaks out.

How is it possible that a people's community, that held public interest in priority before self interest, a people that stood by one another and fought half the world to the last bullet for their Reich, within 68 years became a people of homeless, philistine and ahistorical, consuming social-atoms, conditioned to Pavlovian reflexes, that won't only believe the atrocious accusations against their ancestors, but even contributes to the elimination of its own people by defending them?

This was achieved by a heretofore unseen mental reeducation, a brain- and character-wash [Charakterwäsche, German book written by Caspar von Schrenk-Notzing] of an entire people by the use of Tavistock-methods - the Tavistock-Institute is the inventor of "modern" brainwash.

The victor's warfare propaganda was turned into the historical conception of the Germans. When Goebbels said, that lies only need to be big enough, to not be realized by the people, he was referring to Allied lie-propaganda for the purpose of agitation. As to this, masses-psychology has an impact that cannot be underestimated.

Psychology of the masses, resp. brainwashing, works. We all know it: the more absurd the message is, the more likely it is to be believed.

The most reputable, diligent and inventive people of the world gets turned into primitive, bloodthirsty, murdering Nazis, that have to implicitly believe the most atrocious accusations against their own ancestors.

Consequently, in the here and now, the deception of a National Socialistic Underground [check here for details] threatens the peaceful and tolerant coexistence of the multicultural society that obviously is desired by everyone, which of course is just as much “without any alternative” [*] as the Euro or the foreign deployment of the Bundeswehr. [*referring to a frequent assertion by current FRG-chancellor Angela Merkel]

Bombs, grenades and uranium ammunition lead to democracy, freedom and human rights, and folks like Gaddafi and Assad, who refused to hand over their countries to “western democracy”, or better the Rothschild-capital, are naturally being called the new Hitlers.

And while the domestic employment of the Bundeswehr was “democratically” approved, combatting terrorists, who have been brought into Libya or Syria, is naturally seen as a curse-worthy crime.

Our lives are threatened by an AIDS-Virus that was never verified, but fortunately the pharmaceutical industry has developed medication, for the purpose of delaying the inevitable death predicted by Mr. White Coat. Meanwhile no one takes notice of the side-effects incidentally matching the symptoms of that “disease”.

Psychology of the masses - it works. As yet.

Where does the abyssal demonic hatred and the related tabooing of National Socialism and the German people come from? As a community of souls the German people has a particular purpose: to take the spiritual lead at the end of this Dark Age, for the ascent of mankind to its true destiny as spiritual beings in a revealed material world.

What we’re seeing right now is the Dark Powers’ dance of death.

Satan, the Demon who had promised his “chosen people” the rulership, or better call it governship, over the entire world and the rest of mankind, has been relieved from his duty on this planet a few years ago. He was allowed to go on the rampage here for several thousand years, so the fallen souls (us included) may gain experience and learn from it.

»Jesus said to them [the Jews]: You belong to your father, the devil, and you want to carry out your father’s desires. He was a murderer from the beginning, not holding to the truth, for there is no truth in him. When he lies, he speaks his native language, for he is a liar and the father of lies.« (John 8-44)

In that time for sure, Satan was the Lord of this material world. Otherwise, back in the desert, he couldn’t have offered Jesus the rulership in exchange for accepting a subordinate role to him. Since a true Aryan wouldn’t even do that in the middle of a Dark Era, they eventually nailed him to the cross. But Jesus also said that the Kingdom of God would be given to a different people. This he told two Teutons, mercenaries for the Roman Empire.

There are a number of great books dealing with the animating spirit in these last days of the Dark Age, but none of them is as complex and profound as the following works.

Latest with the take-over of money creation in the US by the private syndicate of companies called FED, a power rose that otherwise prefers to stay on the sideline and considers mankind a pawn in its hands.

There is a book called “The Controversy of Zion” by the British author Douglas Reed, which I consider to be the best works to put a new complexion on occurrences in world history, that didn’t seem to make any sense on first sight.

The fact that Reed wrote that book from a patriotic British perspective and that he made verifiable mistakes regarding British policies and behaviour, doesn’t contradict its fundamental and trailblazing assertions. Here are some excerpts:

»The true start of this affair occurred on a day in 458 BC which this narrative will reach in its sixth chapter. On that day the petty Palestinian tribe of Judah (earlier disowned by the Israelites) produced a racial creed, the disruptive effect of which on subsequent human affairs may have exceeded that of explosives or epidemics. This was the day on which the theory of the master-race was set up as “the Law”...

...Among these "statutes and judgements" as the Levites finally edited them appeared, repeatedly, the commands, "utterly destroy", "pull down", "root out". Judah was destined to produce a nation dedicated to destruction...

...racial exclusion is the first tenet of formal Judaism (and the law of the land in the Zionist state).

...Deuteronomy is above all a complete political programme: the story of the planet, created by Jehovah for this "special people", is to be completed by their triumph and the ruination of all others. The rewards offered to the faithful are exclusively material: slaughter, slaves, women, booty, territory, empire. The only condition laid down for these rewards is observance of "the statutes and judgments", which primarily command the destruction of others. The only guilt defined lies is non-observance of these laws. Intolerance is specified as observance; tolerance as non-observance, and therefore as guilt. The punishments prescribed are of this world and of the flesh, not of the spirit. Moral behaviour, if ever demanded, is required only towards co-religionists and "strangers" are excluded from it...

...The purpose and meaning of existence, under this "Mosaic Law", was the destruction and enslavement of others for the sake of plunder and power...

...Deuteronomy employs this Doublespeak (to use the modern idiom) throughout: the Lord makes the special people homeless among the heathen for their transgressions; the heathen, who have no blame either for their exile or for those transgressions, are their "persecutors "; ergo, the heathen will be destroyed...

The Judaist attitude towards other mankind, creation, and the universe in general, is better understood when these and related passages have been pondered, and especially the constant complaint that Jews are "persecuted" everywhere, which in one tone or another runs through nearly all Jewish literature. To any who accept this book as The Law, the mere existence of others is in fact persecution; Deuteronomy plainly implies that...

...The passage from Deuteronomy last quoted shows that the ruling sect depicted homelessness at one and the same time as the act of the special people's god and as persecution by the special people's enemies, deserving of "all these curses". To minds of such extreme egotism a political outrage in which 95 Gentiles and 5 Jews lose their lives or property is simply an anti-Jewish disaster, and they are not consciously hypocritical in this. In the Twentieth Century this standard of judgment has been projected into the lives of other peoples and applied to all major events in the ordeal of the West. Thus we live in the century of the Levitical fallacy...

...During the Christian era a council of theologians made the decision that the Old Testament and the New should be bound in one book, without any differentiation, as if they were stem and blossom, instead of immovable object and irresistible force. The encyclopaedia before me as I write states laconically that the Christian churches accept the Old Testament as being of "equal divine authority" with the New...

...This unqualified acceptance covers the entire content of the Old Testament and may be the original source of much confusion in the Christian churches and much distraction among the masses that seek Christianity, for the dogma requires belief in opposite things at the same time. How can the same God, by commandment to Moses, have enjoined men to love their neighbours and "utterly to destroy" their neighbours? What relationship can there be between the universal, loving God of the Christian revelation and the cursing deity of Deuteronomy?...

...By the time the West, and Christianity, were nineteen and a half centuries old, the political leaders there, being much in awe of the central sect of Judaism, had begun to speak with pious awe of the Old Testament, as if it were the better half of the Book by which they professed to live. Nevertheless it was, as it always had been, the Law of their peoples' destruction and enslavement, and all their deeds, under the servitude which they accepted, led towards that end...

...Another paradox in the story of Zion is that in our generation Christian divines and theologians often insist that "Jesus was a Jew", whereas the Judaist elders refuse to allow this...

...This public assertion, "Jesus was a Jew", is always used in our century for political purposes. It is often employed to quell objections to the Zionist influence in international politics or to the Zionist invasion of Palestine, the suggestion being that, as Jesus was a Jew, none ought to object to anything purporting to be done in the name of Jews. The irrelevance is obvious, but mobs are moved by such phrases, and the paradoxical result, once again, is that a statement, most offensive to literal Jews, is most frequently made by non-Jewish politicians and ecclesiastics who seek Jewish favour...

...Religiously, Jesus seems beyond doubt to have been the opposite and adversary of all that which would make a literal Jew today or would have made a literal Pharisee then...

...What gives the teaching of this unlettered young man its effect of blinding revelation, the quality of light first discovered, is the black background, of the Levitical Law and the Pharisaic tradition, against which he moved when he went to Judea. Even today the sudden fullness of enlightenment, in the Sermon on the Mount, dazzles the student who has emerged from a critical perusal of the Old Testament...

...The young Galilean never taught subservience, only an inner humility, and in one direction he was consistently and constantly scornful: in his attack on the Pharisees...

...These Pharisees had taught the people of Judea to expect a Messiah, and now had crucified the first claimant. That meant that the Messiah was still to come. According to the Pharisees the Davidic king had yet to appear and claim his empire of the world, and that is still the situation today...

...In the Twentieth Century this powerful sect was able to bring the masses of Christendom and Islam to the verge of destructive battle with each other. If the present generation sees that clash, the spectacle will be that of one great universal religion contending with another for the purpose of setting up the creed of the "master-race"...

...It was true that the Jewish clamour for emancipation was not truly concerned with the great idea or principle at issue: human liberty. The Judaic Law denied that idea and principle. The Talmudic governors of Jewry saw that the quickest way to remove the barriers between themselves and power over nations was to destroy legitimate government in these nations; and the quickest way to that end was to cry "emancipation!".

Thus the door opened by emancipation could be used to introduce the permanent revolutionary force into the life of nations; with the destruction of all legitimate government, the revolutionaries would succeed to power, and these revolutionaries would be Talmud-trained and Talmud-controlled. They would act always under the Mosaic Law, and in this way the end of Babylon could be reproduced in the West...

...The "Mosaic Law" has been superimposed on the life of Western peoples, which in fact is governed by that law, not by any law of their own. The political and military operations of two world wars have been diverted to promote the Zionist ambition and the life and treasure of the West have been poured out in support of it...

...the most important fact in the later story of Zion is concealed. The "centre" of Jewish government was at this time planted among a large community of people who were unknown to the world as Jews and in fact were not Jews in any literal sense. They had no Judahite blood at all (for that matter; Judahite blood must by this time have been almost extinct even among the Jews of Western Europe) and their forefathers had never known Judea, or any soil but that of Tartary.

These people were the Khazars, a Turco-Mongolian race which had been converted to Judaism in about the 7th century of our era. This is the only case of the conversion of a large body of people of quite distinct blood to Judaism (the Idumeans were "brothers"). The reason why the Talmudic elders permitted or encouraged it can only be guessed; without it, however, the "Jewish question" would by now have joined the problems that time has solved...

...This development (which will be further discussed in a later chapter) was of vital, and perhaps even mortal importance to the West. The natural instinct of Europe was always to expect the greatest danger to its survival from Asia. From the moment when "the centre" was transferred to Poland these Asiatics began to move towards, and later to enter the West in the guise of "Jews" and they brought Europe to its greatest crisis. Though their conversion had occurred so long before they were so remote that the world might never have known of them, had not the Talmudic centre been set up among them, so that they came to group themselves around it...

...When they became known, as "Eastern Jews", they profited by the confusing effect of the contraction of the word Judahite, or Judean, to "Jew"; none would ever have believed that they were Judahites or Judeans. From the time when they took over the leadership of Jewry the dogma of "the return" to Palestine was preached in the name of people who had no Semitic blood or ancestral link with Palestine whatever!

From this period the Talmudic government operated with a masse de manoeuvre of a different Asiatic order...

...The study of hundreds of volumes, during many years, gradually brought realization that the essential truth of the story of Zion is all summed-up in Mr. Maurice Samuel's twenty-one words: "We Jews, the destroyers, will remain the destroyer forever . . . nothing that the Gentiles will do will meet our needs and demands".

At first hearing they sound vainglorious or neurotic, but increasing knowledge of the subject shows them to be honestly meant and carefully chosen. They mean that a man who is born and continues a Jew acquires a destructive mission which he cannot elude. If he deviates from this "Law" he is not a good Jew, in the eyes of the elders; if he wishes or is compelled to be a good Jew, he must conform to it.

This is the reason why the part played by those who directed "the Jews" in history was bound to be a destructive one; and in our generation of the Twentieth Century the destructive mission has attained its greatest force, with results which cannot even yet be fully foreseen.

This is not an opinion of the present writer. Zionist scribes, apostate rabbis and Gentile historians agree about the destructive purpose; it is not in dispute among serious students and is probably the only point on which agreement is unanimous. All history is presented to the Jew in these terms: that destruction is the condition of the fulfilment of the Judaic Law and of the ultimate Jewish triumph.

"All history" means different things to the Jew and the Gentile. To the Gentile it means, approximately, the annals of the Christian era and any that extend further back before they begin to fade into legend and myth.

To the Jew it means the record of events given in the Torah-Talmud and the rabbinical sermons, and this reaches back to 3760 BC., the exact date of the Creation. The Law and "history" are the same, and there is only Jewish history; this narrative unfolds itself before his eyes exclusively as a tale of destructive achievement and of Jewish vengeance, in the present time as three thousand or more years ago.

By this method of portrayal the whole picture of other nations' lives collapses into almost nothing, like the bamboo-and-paper framework of a Chinese lantern. It is salutary for the Gentile to contemplate his world, past and present, through these eyes and to find that what he always thought to be significant, worthy of pride, or shameful, does not even exist, save as a blurred background to the story of Zion. It is like looking at himself through the wrong end of a telescope with one eye and at Judah through a magnifying glass with the other.«

"The Controversy of Zion" is available for free on the internet. There's nothing left to add to Jürgen Graft's preface in the German version.

An absolutely interesting historical document is the letter written by Giuseppe Mazzini to Albert Pike on 22 January 1870. It outlines the plans of how to establish a world government by creating three world wars:

»The First World War must be brought about in order to permit the Illuminati to overthrow the power of the Czars in Russia and of making that country a fortress of atheistic Communism. The divergences caused by the "agentur" (agents) of the Illuminati between the British and Germanic Empires will be used to foment this war. At the end of the war, Communism will be built and used in order to destroy the other governments and in order to weaken the religions.«

»The Second World War must be fomented by taking advantage of the differences between the Fascists and the political Zionists. This war must be brought about so that Nazism is destroyed and that the political Zionism be strong enough to institute a sovereign state of Israel in Palestine. During the Second World War, International Communism must become strong enough in order to balance Christendom, which would be then restrained and held in check until the time when we would need it for the final social cataclysm.«

»The Third World War must be fomented by taking advantage of the differences caused by the "agentur" (=agency) of the "Illuminati" between the political Zionists and the leaders of Islamic World. The war must be conducted in such a way that Islam (the Moslem Arabic World) and political Zionism (the State of Israel) mutually destroy each other. Meanwhile the other nations, once more divided on this issue will be constrained to fight to the point of complete physical, moral, spiritual and economical exhaustion...We shall unleash the Nihilists and the atheists, and we shall provoke a formidable social cataclysm which in all its horror will show clearly to the nations the effect of absolute atheism, origin of savagery and of the most bloody turmoil. Then everywhere, the citizens, obliged to defend themselves against the world minority of revolutionaries, will exterminate those destroyers of civilization, and the multitude, disillusioned with Christianity, whose deistic spirits will from that moment be without compass or direction, anxious for an ideal, but without knowing where to render its adoration, will receive the true light through the universal manifestation of the pure doctrine of Lucifer, brought finally out in the public view. This manifestation will result from the general reactionary movement which will follow the destruction of Christianity and atheism, both conquered and exterminated at the same time.« [\[Source\]](#)

It clearly states that the Illuminati will only use Zionism to achieve their goal of total power – bear in mind the Matryoshka Doll. Something that provably took place in the past one hundred years was the destruction of historically evolved structures, states and orders on a global scale, and the increased power-shift to international organisations like the European Union and the United Nations.

Since the foundation of the German Empire in 1871 it became a political goal of British policy, as a Rothschild-tool of the City of London, to destroy the German Empire at all events. Unfortunately the foundation of the Reich in 1871 took place without German-Austria, so the German tribes were not to be unified in one Empire to its full extent: from the Meuse in the West to the Memel in the East, and from the Adige in the South to the Belt in the North.

Britain created the label “Made in England” to discredit German products all over the world, but that totally backfired since “Made in Germany” became the measure of all things within just a few years after that. Products from Germany were of better quality and cheaper than their counterparts from Britain. After the turn of the century the German Empire was on its way to become the first true global power.

And that didn't happen through war, conquest and the looting of colonies, but through hard work and the inventiveness of the German people. Germany was in the lead in electrical engineering, machine engineering and chemical science. Nowhere else was there an education system that exemplary, generating the lowest degree of analphabetism in the world, and the health and welfare system installed by Otto von Bismarck, the Chancellor of the German Empire, was unique and without precedent in history. And last but not least, Germany was on its way to supplant Britain and its world trade in the years to follow.

Despite despicable power goals, these circumstances appeared to be reason enough, for a war that Germany never wanted. In his book “Circumstances and Characterizations from the Years 1878-1918“, written in his exile in Holland, Kaiser Wilhelm II. wrote that Germany could have only achieved its goals during times of peace, while its enemies could only achieve theirs by war.

Historians like to characterise WW I as the great seminal catastrophe of the twentieth century, not realising the mechanism that made the course of WW I, and made possible what came after. The true seminal catastrophe of the last century took place unnoticed on 12 December 1913.

That day, a private syndicate lead by Paul Warburg, managed to implement a bill in the US-senate, which passed the monopoly of money creation in the US from the state to private hands. The state handed over its monopoly to private people, so it could lend money at interest from them, which it used to emit itself. This lunatic strike was sold to the public as the necessity of an “independent” central bank that shall prevent economic crises with its fiscal policy. This Orwellian false pretence made the FED the most powerful tool for the creation of coming crises, and stealing real values in a global scale by the rampant creation of “debt”.

To ensure everything goes as planned those private bankers had installed “their” president Wilson beforehand. And since these folks plan beforehand, they had implemented the Income Tax Act half a year prior, to make sure they get a financial security on the interest of that inflationary rising state debt. That’s what our income tax is about. Has anyone ever been informed of this irrefutable fact by one’s tax advisor?

After the funding-mechanism for the coming events was put in place, WW I was triggered with the assassination of the Austrian heir apparent Franz Ferdinand in Sarajevo and the Treaty of Alliance was invoked. Since the Russian Czar was indecisive about mobilisation, his “enlightened” advisors lent a hand, and the German Kaiser Friedrich Wilhelm II failed to realise the malice of the events happening, and stood by Austria according to his treaty obligations.

Despite all intrigues and manipulations, the German Reich had effectively won the war by the end of 1915. Without exception German troops stood undefeated on enemy territory and Britain, as well as France were militarily finished and economically exhausted. The German Kaiser offered a reputable peace, but that wasn’t what Zion wanted. So now the FED made an appearance and did what the US as a state wasn’t able to do: it granted unlimited credits to Britain and France to put them in a position of being able to purchase their needed replenishment from the US. After this two year prolongation of the war the Entente was so exhausted that peace was in sight again.

And again the peace initiative was taken by the German Empire, and again it was sabotaged by an intervention of the “chosen”. The Balfour Declaration lead to the US entering the war under the condition, that Britain took a stand by handing over Palestine to the Zionists for the foundation of their Jewish state. And since a British prime minister also referred to WW I and WW II as a “Thirty Year’s War”, the miracle from biblical prophecies happened in 1948: The foundation of the State Israel.

In order to make the American people bite the bullet, in 1915 the passenger steamer Lusitania, overstuffed with weapons and ammunition, was steered in front of the torpedo tubes of a German U-Boat. Although it was absolutely legitimate to sink an ammunition transporter, the warfare propaganda of the hidden agenda had its casus belli: the Germans were monsters that don’t even back off from sinking a passenger vessel. The fact that the Germans had placed warnings in US-newspapers, asking civil passengers to not board that ship, was totally ignored though.

Getting the US directly involved in the war, and stirring up unrest and revolt in Germany, finally turned the tide. The German forces, while marching on Paris, got defensive and were forced to beat retreat. Despite their retreat the German forces were still not beaten and still stood beyond their own territory, which actually isn’t anything close to an overwhelming defeat.

What happened next was a very special perfidious move. After US-President Wilson unfolded his 14-point-plan, the German Reich declared its will for peace and laid down arms. But then it crossed the benefactor’s mind that a true peace needs to include the resignation of the German Emperor. So on 11 November 1914 (...9/11!?!? ...the wall [seperating East- and West-Germany] also came down on 11 Nov [in 1989]... what a coincidence...) Prince Maximilian von Baden, without authorisation of any kind, proclaimed Wilhelm’s abdication, not only as Emperor of the German Reich, but also as the King of Prussia.

The rest is history: The Treaty of Versailles, on which British prime minister Lloyd George commented: »We have written a document that guarantees war in twenty years.«

Germany was made fully responsible for the war, had to yield 10 % of its territory to bordering nations, reduce their armed forces to 100,000 men, pay reparations in kind and money to incredible extent, and lost its anyhow few colonies. The biggest powder keg though was the so-called “corridor” cutting off East-Prussia from the Empire, along with the proclamation of Gdansk being a free city.

The following is very interesting: The US-public back then was a lot more critical compared to a few decades later. After the war a committee was appointed, to ascertain who really was responsible for the war. The astounding verdict was, that the German Empire incurred the least guilt of all participants, which consequently lead to the US not ratifying the Versailles-Treaty.

Let me make a short remark about a "little detail" our competent so-called "historians" seemingly missed. Official readings portray the "bloodthirsty", little-children-for-breakfast-eating German Emperor, as the one who made sure that Lenin could travel through Germany, all the way to Russia in a sealed railway waggon, so he could start a revolution there and take the pressure off the eastern front. The truth is that Max Warburg, Chief of the German Secret Police, Rothschild-agent and brother of FED-co-founder Paul Warburg was responsible, and that the Kaiser had no knowledge of that.

Another interesting "detail" is the assertion that the "revolution" in Russia was funded with German Money. A fact willingly withheld is that in 1919 the "revolutionaries" were still mainly stuck in Moscow and St. Petersburg, while major parts of that giant country weren't in their hands whatsoever. But still the money to fund the "revolution" kept coming - though very unlikely from Germany, since after the Treaty of Versailles they certainly had other issues than buying revolutions abroad.

Lenin hadn't been too successful with his first attempt to start a revolution and had to temporise. But shortly after he was getting supported by a man with the alias Trotzki (Bronstein), who had lived in a luxury apartment in New York early in 1917 and was chauffeured around the City in a limousine. Together with his Long-Island-trained "revolutionaries" he was shipped to Russia together with - in those days incredible - 20 million US-Dollars. When the ship stopped over in Halifax, New Scotland, Trotzki was held captive by Canadian authorities, but had to be released within a few hours due to pressure from high executives in Washington and London, who certainly received their orders from their true Masters.

The rest is official history again: The "great, socialistic October-Revolution" took its course. It must be a minor matter, that this wasn't a worker's and farmer's revolution, but that the Khazars, who formed the core of the Zionists and virtually completely ruled the US since the foundation of the FED, took back power over "their country" from which they were dislodged around 1.000 years earlier. But as Martin Hohmann [German politician and MoP until 2005] had to experience, it's of course politically absolutely incorrect to suggest that 95 % of the "revolution"-functionaries were Jewish.

Unfortunately, the truth is anti-Semitic - which leads to the next point regarding the Orwellian-New-Speak.

When 3-5 % of all Jews worldwide are Sephardic (Semitic) and all others are Khazars, and these non-semitic Zionists terrorise Semitic Palestinians in their state... What's to be called anti-Semitic then?

The First, as well as the Second World War were fought by "democracies" as "wars to end all wars", and for the "right of the self-determination of the people".

1: Even after the second engagement, and the official surrender of the German Reich, there were more than 200 wars and military campaigns 'Made by US-RAEL', without any "bloodthirsty, mass-murdering and war hungry" German being involved.

2: If it really was a matter of the peoples' self-determination, millions of Germans, as well as other ethnic origins, wouldn't have become ruled by a foreign power under the Treaty of Versailles. German-Austria, a left-over after the dissolution of the Austro-Hungarian-Empire, would have followed the will of the Austrian majority and would have joined the German Reich.

South-Tyrol, the heartland of the old German Tyrol, wouldn't have fallen under Italian regimen. It was simple blood money for Italy's treason against the Central Powers defecting to the Entente after the outbreak of war. Even nowadays this is perceived as very painful in South-Tyrol, since even though the Tyrol riflemen happened to be an improvised corps, the Italian forces were pushed back and forced on the defensive. During the entire war they were unable to occupy South-Tyrol, also thanks to the support the riflemen got from forces of the Reich.

If it would have been a matter of the peoples' self-determination, the Kurds would have gotten their own nation instead of being scattered over three countries - we witness the outcome of that today. And for the sake of one more example: If it would have been a matter of the peoples' self-determination, Roosevelt and his backers wouldn't have given East- and Central-Europe to the mercy of Stalin, without any given military necessity.

As to British warfare propaganda: »In World War One the world was flooded with lies and atrocities, such as the allegation of Germans bundling fallen soldiers naked and processing them into glycerine, oil and pig food. Furthermore that German soldiers and the Kaiser himself were chopping off kids' hands in the occupied areas, so France wouldn't have the chance of recruiting any new soldiers. There were even reports of German soldiers eating those hands and raping nuns and cutting off their breasts. The fabrication of photos had almost become a manufacturing industry at that time...« (cf. Arthur Ponsonby: Falsehood in War-Time – Propaganda Lies of the First World War, 1928)

So, since only minor parts of Germany were occupied after WW I, it was still possible to expose the lies and wartime propaganda during the time of the Weimar Republic, even with support from righteous Brits. This mistake was not to be repeated after the second engagement. The country was entirely occupied, the elites either killed or replaced, and the victor's propaganda was raised to a doctrine by law – a condition remaining unchanged until today.

Even when the British blockade against Germany was eased in March 1919, after causing almost one million starvation-deaths, living conditions for the masses in the Weimar Republic faced a plummet collapse, compared to the times of the Kaiserreich. The “Golden Twenties” were certainly golden for only a very few privileged ones. In 1923 all Germans still in possession of something were completely expropriated by hyperinflation. Misery and severe shortage determined the lives of the people, especially since the Great Depression that was caused by the FED with scientific precision in 1929.

The FED had expanded the money supply in the twenties, which had caused an artificial, debt funded stock-boom. Paul Warburg had warned insiders about the things to come, and after that they only had 6 months to sell their shares at high prices. The FED then tightened the broad money by cancelling the stock broker's day loans, and because the brokers had to service their loans this resulted in an oversupply of shares.

The result was a striking success for High Finance. All over sudden shares became what they really are: a printed piece of paper that people had to sell off at any cost. The stock markets crashed, and the monetary reserves quickly depleted due to bank runs.

Many banks had to close down, since the Federal Reserve System refused to come to the rescue. Characteristically the Federal Reserve Act was put in place, in order for the money supply to be regulated, to prevent these kinds of crises.

In Germany the outcome of this crisis, the severe misery and poverty, was overcome incredibly quick after the takeover of National Socialism. The oddest rumours about the takeover and Hitler as a person circulate even inside the truther-movement; claiming Hitler was a Jew, an Allied agent financed by the Rothschilds. But whomsoever the Nazis might have been funded by, it doesn't necessarily mean they acted in those people's name. One should judge people by their verifiable actions, not by defamation. Some time ago I wrote the following comment:

»It's upsetting how respectable and intelligent truthers, and those who claim to be German patriots, flip the switch when it comes to topics like National Socialism / Hitler / Outbreak of War, and so on. People who otherwise question everything fall for Allied propaganda, or get lead up the garden path by all kinds of assertions. There is something I call the researchable level of knowledge and this is what it looks like:

Nowhere else in the world a comparable social buildup and standard of living was achieved, as was in the German Empire in those 6 years of peace until 1939.

The Reich was thriving, while Roosevelt's New Deal was a complete flop, and unemployment and poverty in the US was the order of the day. Unlike nowadays, children were no economical threat to their parents but families were supported, for instance by cancelling a quarter of the anyhow modest loan on their house. German workers went on vacation on KDF-steamers [KDF = Kraft durch Freude = Strength through joy] and the ships wouldn't get permission to land on British shore, so the British workers wouldn't realise who the passengers are. The Empire built up the by far most modern infrastructure of the world (autobahns, telephone network, aso.), and was in the lead in all vital fields of science and engineering. Consequently there was the first global television broadcast at the 1936 Olympics.

Since the Reich was sabotaged economically by the 'democratic' benefactors, it made a virtue out of necessity by reinventing barter, excluding the US-Dollar and the British Pound. Machinery and tractors were delivered to South America in exchange for crops and other agricultural products, which was highly beneficial for both sides, because High Finance was unable to cash up. Here's a statement from a very unsuspicious witness about Germany in the year of 1936:

"Never mind what they may say today, Germany in 1936 was thriving and happy. On its face was the bloom of a woman in love. And the Germans were in love — in love with Hitler. [...] And to be sure that there was much to be grateful for. Hitler had banished unemployment and brought them a new prosperity. He had given his Germans a new sense of national strength and national mission." (Sefton Delmer – British propagandist in WW2 in his book: 'Trail Sinister': An Autobiography, Volume One – published by Secker and Warburg in 1961)

In 1939 Hitler was about to finalise a revision of parts of the Versailles Treaty. While during times of the ever so democratic Weimar Republic anyone, who would have given up just a squaremeter of German soil, would have been tarred and feathered, he was about to find a consensual solution with Poland about the matter of the corridor in East-Prussia and Gdansk. He would have even passed on the corridor, if Poland would have only been responsive to any of his other moderate conditions. According to David Hoggan, a Belgian diplomat back then, no other leader in the world would have made a more generous offer than Hitler did. Well, lets get down to the nitty-gritty of that:

The question is: Why did Poland reject the generous German offer?

The obvious answer might be, because of the British guarantee to Poland. But without British support Poland was finished within two weeks and was handed over to Stalin in 1945, so why did Britain guarantee in the first place?

The Corridors of Power knew exactly that, after those issues being solved, the Reich wouldn't demand anything from anyone anymore, thus the chances of provoking a war would have vanished into thin air for many years to come.

Under no circumstances, the British 'guarantee' and the declaration of war against the Reich on September 3rd would have taken place, if Roosevelt wouldn't have ensured Churchill as early as in summer 1938 (via his ambassador William C. Bullitt), that the US would side with Britain 'in the coming war'.

The calculated planning is very apparent when one realises that, as one of his first official acts in 1933, Roosevelt (Rosenfeld) diplomatically recognised the Soviet Union, and thus Stalin's genocide industry (e.g. the mass murder in Ukraine), while demonising national socialistic Germany right from the beginning, though even system-historians pinned a maximum of 200 deaths on Hitler for the time until 1939. Interestingly, Roosevelt's first ambassador in the Soviet Union was William C. Bullitt.

Gerd Schultze-Rhonhof, retired Major General of the Bundeswehr, gives lectures called: "The War That Had Many Fathers" [Video in German, also available as paperback].

I went to see one of these presentations in Arnstadt, Germany. There, Schultze-Rhonhof stated that he had started looking into the armament industries of the 1930s in Europe many years ago, and that he came to the absolutely unexpected conclusion, strongly contrasting with the historical consensus, that in the year 1939 Germany wasn't prepared for an offensive war whatsoever.

Since it's totally unacceptable of course, for a Major General of the Bundeswehr, to doubt the 'popular pedagogical conception of history', his further research and the consequential insights inevitably lead to him having to resign from the Bundeswehr.

The most interesting thing about his very profound and extensive presentation (which I highly recommend to any newbie) to me though was, that there was barely anything new for me to learn. So I guess my personal level of research must be pretty solid.

Regardless of the public opinion in the US, clearly being against getting involved in yet another European conflict, especially after the experiences made in WW I (which Wilson had lied the US into), Roosevelt lied the US into WW II. As early as 1940 (when the US were still officially nonpartisan) he gave order to 'his' Navy to fire on German ships 'on sight', to compel to war as a retaliation to a German counterstrike. But the ever so bloodthirsty Hitler had given orders to not return fire, no matter what. So what could be done?

Since the Reich wouldn't allow to get directly involved in a military conflict with the US, the war had to come through the backdoor: Pearl Harbor. Roosevelt knew exactly that Germany, unlike the US, would stick to its obligations, so the proud Japanese were in fact forced into an attack on Pearl Harbor by a humiliating war ultimatum. And to make sure everything works out, and the anti-war-sentiment in the US would properly flip, despite Roosevelt's and his fellow campaigner's intel (they had broken the Japanese Navy-codes), the crews on scene didn't get any word of warning.

The result was a great success for the puppet masters in the rear seat, with 3.000 Americans dead. Concurrently with this, on 18 February 1941 Roosevelt put the Lend-Lease-Act in action, which immediately allowed supporting Stalin in terms of weaponry, ammunition, locomotives, vehicles, and so forth. This kind of substantial support for a system, that turned into the 'Great Threat in the East' after 1945, cannot be overestimated. Without it, weakened due to the tremendous material losses in the first months of the war, the Red Army would have collapsed defending Moscow.

"...It was funded by the industrial facilities that had been moved to the Urals and further, and were running on full capacity by then. Within 3 months 500.000 railway wagons packed with war material were rolling to the front line, as well as 183.000 modern trucks, that had been delivered by the United States based on the Lend-Lease-Act, and made quick redeployments of troops possible..." German Mainstream-Newspaper "Die Welt": [When Kursk became the biggest stronghold of all times - German online-article]

But why did Roosevelt do that? Well, who would even know about a man called Bernard Baruch... This unheard-of person had more influence on events of the last century than anyone can imagine. This philanthropist was personal advisor to several generations of US-Presidents, from Wilson all the way to Eisenhower, who pointed out in his memoirs, that it was the wisest decision of his entire life to consult Bernard Baruch. He was the one who made Eisenhower, a small unknown base wallah, totally inexperienced in strategic matters, Supreme Commander of the Allied Forces in Europe. And as a side-note, the Lend-and-Lease-System was created by Baruch as well, which aside from the Soviet Union also prevented the military collapse of Britain. It was Baruch who whispered all those inspiring ideas to Roosevelt, without ever really coming into the picture. That's how power politics works.

All those who concern themselves day and night with all those bizarre conjectures about Hitler (e.g. that he was a Jew, an Allied agent, aso.), should really start facing his verifiable behaviour and deeds. When Thomas Mehner [link to the German book: Die Atombombe und das Dritte Reich - The nuclear bomb and the Third Reich, in German] can prove that the Reich had operational nuclear bombs in 1944, and Hitler prohibited their use (just like the use of Tabun and Sarin), after his experts elaborated on the dramatic impact this weapon would have on man and nature, do you really think that can be called treason, or rather a sign of true humanity?

The demonic Dark Powers fighting the Reich had no scruples, feelings or emotions. You cannot imagine how perverse their actions were. With all genius and greatness, Hitler was a sympathetic and knightly man. That's the reason for Dunkirk - he refused to humiliate Britain, and wanted to negotiate peace at eye level. He didn't foresee how the perfidious Albion would take advantage of that. And you blame him for wanting to help those Germans, which were suffering under bestial conditions in the corridor, by attacking on 1 September 1939. (check this out: Documents of Polish Cruelty [in German] - or this: Death Spoke Polish [in German])

The reasons for the pre-emptive attack in the summer of 1941 are very well documented in the meantime, so I won't get into that again. Horst Mahler confirmed to me, that we Germans are to be made to stand aloof from Hitler and the Reich. We should refuse to fall for that.«

And since it fits so perfectly at this point: How Hitler gained independence from international interest-slavery [German online-article].

This is the way a man speaks, who is suspect of being an Allied agent: Video on YT – Hitler's appeal to the Nation – Radio broadcast 1932 [in German]

»... the city against the countryside, the employee against the official, the handicraft worker against the star-worker, the Bavarian against the Prussian, the Catholics against the Protestants, immediately and vice versa...« Nowadays one can add Ossi [synonymical for people from the East-German Soviet occupation zone] against Wessi [the contrary = West-Germany/US, French, British occupation zone]. That much as to the unique "Nazi-Nationality"...

The unification of all Germans to one state was mandatory to achieve the succeeding buildup. That the Reich had lost the war by 1945 was also the result of verifiably not being geared up for it. Why do you think "Brussels" "bolsters" the local areas? Because only a united people can effectively resist the "One-World"-lunacy.

The well documented German peace efforts, and the attempted settlement with Poland, is another interesting chapter.

In 1918 the state of Poland revived, especially at the instigation of the German Empire, but it refused to be satisfied with the territorial gains given by the Versailles Treaty. They didn't make a pretence of their dreams of a Greater Poland, reaching all the way to the river Oder, or even to the river Elbe.

When the referendum was announced in Upper Silesia, to have the people choose if they'd rather want to belong to Poland or Germany, Poland created a fait accompli:

»...On 2 May the third uprising in Upper Silesia was engineered by Korfanty and a horrible reign of terror took its course. Murder multiplied, the Germans were martyred, mutilated, tormented to death, their corpses ravished. Villages and castles were robbed, set on fire, blown up. The incidents officially published by the German government in 1921 boggle one's mind...« Prof. Dr. René Martel in "The Eastern Frontiers of Germany" (first issue: Paris 1930)

About the Polish raids in Upper Silesia in 1921:

»...The Polish have finally lost their sense for measure and greatness. Any foreigner looking at the new geographical maps in Poland, which show huge parts of Germany up to the area near Berlin, Bohemia, Moravia, Slovakia and a giant Part of Russia already being annexed in the vivid Polish fantasies, must believe Poland has become a big lunatic asylum...« Ward Hermans – Flemish writer, 3 August 1939, cited in Friedrich Lenz: „Nie wieder München“ [check on Amazon, very rare], Heidelberg 1964, Vol. I, Page 207 [German]

»...We're aware that the war between Poland and Germany cannot be avoided. We need to prepare for this war systematically and forcefully. Today's generation will see a new victory at Grunwald [Battle of Grunwald, 1410] written on the pages of history. But we will fight this Grunwald in the suburbs of Berlin. Our ideal is to round off Poland with borders at the rivers Oder and Neisse in the Lusatia in the West and annex Prussia from river Pregel to the Spree. In this war there will be no prisoners, there will be no room for humanitarianism...« Taken from the censored "Mosarstwowiecz" – a paper affiliated with the Polish Military Dictatorship - in 1930, three years before Hitler's takeover!

»...It will be the Polish Army to invade Germany on the first day of war...« Declaration of the Polish Ambassador in Paris on 15th August 1939 (cf. Prof. Dr. Michael Freund "Weltgeschichte", Vol. III, Pg. 90 [German])

»...We are content to make a deal with the devil if he's willing to help us against Hitler. Hear it: Against Germany, not only against Hitler. German blood will be shed in such large rivers, unseen since the world was formed...« The Warsaw Newspaper "Depesza" on 20th August 1939

It's an effective way of propaganda to suppress things that don't match the picture. The British Government kept the fact a secret to the British people, that Germany had made a generous peace offer to Poland shortly before the outbreak of war. If it would have been known to the public, the British declaration of war against the German Empire would have caused mass protesting by the British public, who remembered the useless battles of WW I very well, and the consequences for the conspirators would have been unforeseeable.

Since the countless attacks by Poland on Germans in the corridor and German territory are very well documented, it's another piece of Allied propaganda, that the Nazis had to orchestrate a Polish attack on the radio station in Gliwice, in order for a casus belli. Despite countless German initiatives for peace and offers for talks, Poland refused to show any interest in clearing the air with the German Empire. In the end the only reason Poland acted like this, was the British guarantee that goaded Poland even more into provocative military actions, though it ended up being totally worthless.

And that's why Adolf Hitler said: »Since 05.45 h fire has now been returned.«

A standard reference from Germany is the book "Weißbuch zum Kriegsausbruch". [As yet only available in German, but absolutely recommended for those who master the language]

Another epochal work is "The Forced War – When Peaceful Revision Failed" by US-historian David L. Hoggan, published in 1961. David Hoggan, born in 1923, wrote several books dealing highly critically with US-history, and some that completely break up the court reporter's historiography of German history. Unfortunately he already died on 7 August 1988.

Also very interesting: "What the World Rejected; Hitler's Peace Offers 1933-1939" by Friedrich Stieve.

A small detail as per margin: Alfred Naujocks, who testified at the Nuremberg Trials that he was commanded to feign a "Polish" attack to the radio station at Gliwice, was released in 1950 and made himself a life as a businessman in Hamburg, where he lived until 1966. So that's what had happened to the man who allegedly gave the Nazis the reason to start WW II, while other Germans were killed for fabricated crimes or malicious prosecution (like the Katyn Massacre).

Another small detail: The 1 September 1939 wasn't the day of the outbreak of WW2. On this day a local German-Polish conflict escalated, due to very well documented reasons for the German Empire to take action. It only turned into a world war with the British and the French declaring war against the Reich on 3 September 1939.

Considering the fact that the US have waged wars under false pretences since the beginning of their existence, but especially in the past 100 years, the hypocrisy of the system historians is truly unsurpassed. The documentation "War made easy – When Presidents and Pundits keep Spinning us to Death" must have been an accident of the Mainstream-Media – a must-see!

So here we're allowed to officially learn about the US-Presidents having lied the US into wars for over 50 years. Projecting those statements onto the 50 years before then, might consequently cause an upsetting shake-up of one's conception of the world. It truly is like Johannes Jürgenson writes: The opposite is true [German].

Here are some more quotes that might appear to be shocking to some who believe in the system:

»The victorious powers solemnly promised the Germans in the Treaty that they would disarm if Germany led the way in disarming. Germany waited fourteen years for the fulfilment of this promise. During that time a queue of distinctive, peaceable Ministers were active in Germany, Ministers who did not stop to seriously entreat the Big Powers to redeem the given promise at long last. They [the victorious powers] - made fun - bantered these German Ministers into a number of agreements, among them one, a distinctive anti-war agreement. In the meantime, all countries, with the exception of England, had intensified their arming and had even granted government loans to Germany's neighbours with which they, in turn, established powerful military organisations close to Germany's borders. Is it any wonder that the German people were ultimately driven to riots and revolution against the chronic fraudulence of the big powers?« Lloyd George speaking in the British House of Commons on November 29th 1934.

»I want peace and I will do my utmost to conclude peace. It's not too late yet. As much as the sacrifices and the honor of the German Nation allow it, I will take it to the hilt. I know better things than war! I keep thinking about the loss of German blood - always the best, the bravest and those willing to make sacrifices will fall, those who's duty it would be to represent and lead the Nation. Unlike Churchill I don't have to put up with establishing a reputation by war. I want to establish my reputation as regulator of the German people, I want to secure its unity and living space, I want to push through National Socialism, and form the environment.« Adolf Hitler after the completion of the campaign in France in a conversation with his architect Prof. Hermann Giesler (Giesler: "Ein anderer Hitler", page 395 [German])

»What thrust us into war were not Hitler's political teachings: the cause, this time, was his successful attempt to establish a new economy. The causes of the war were: envy, greed, and fear.« Major-General John Frederick Charles Fuller in his book The Second World War, 1939-1945: a strategical and tactical history, \(1948\)

»Germany's unforgivable crime before the second world war," Churchill said," was her attempt to extricate her economic power from the world's trading system and to create her own exchange mechanism which would deny world finance its opportunity to profit.« Winston Churchill to Lord Robert Boothby, quoted in the Foreword in Sidney Rogerson's book: 'Propaganda in the Next War' 1938.

»We must now be honest about the German question, as uncomfortable as it may be for the Germans, for our international partners and even ourselves ... The question remains, in essence, the same. Not how do we prevent German tanks from rolling over the Oder or the Marne, but how Europe will deal with a people whose number, talent, and efficiency is allowing it to become our regional superpower. We did not enter the war in 1939 in order to save Germany from Hitler or the Jews from Auschwitz or the Continent from Fascism. As in 1914, we entered the war for the no less noble reason that we were not able to accept a German predominance in Europe.« Sunday Correspondent, London September 17th 1989

»Now we have forced Hitler to war so he no longer can peacefully annihilate one piece of the Treaty of Versailles after the other.« Lord Halifax, English ambassador in Washington (1939) (cf. „Nation Europa“ 1954, booklet no. 1, page 46)

»The main point here is that, unlike Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin, he did not wish to have a war break out in 1939.« Harry Elmer Barnes in "Blasting of the historical Blackout", Oxnard, California, 1962

»If this fundamental dogma cannot be maintained, WW2 will become the greatest crime of history ... that mainly weighs on Great Britain, France and the United States.« Prof. Harry Elmer Barnes (Barnes und Prof. Charles Beard were highly esteemed historians in the US, but when they rejected the official US-government-story of Pearl Harbour they were denounced as lunatics, fools, weirdos... and were ousted from their official teaching.)

»We ignored Hitler's pleading not to enter into war. Now we are forced to realize that Hitler was right. He offered us the co-operation of Germany: instead, since 1945, we have been facing the immense power of the Soviet Empire. I feel ashamed and humiliated to see that the aims we accused Hitler of are being relentlessly pursued now, only under a different label.« Sir Hartley Shawcross - chief British prosecutor at Nuremberg War Crimes Tribunal

»We made a monster, a devil out of Hitler. Therefore we couldn't disavow it after the war. After all, we mobilized the masses against the devil himself. So we were forced to play our part in this diabolic scenario after the war. In no way we could have pointed out to our people that the war only was an economic preventive measure.« James Baker, US-Secretary of State in 1992

»You must understand that this war is not against Hitler or National Socialism, but against the strength of the German people, which is to be smashed once and for all, regardless of whether it is in the hands of Hitler or a Jesuit priest.« Winston Churchill, Emrys Hughes: Winston Churchill - His Career in War and Peace, p. 145

»Germany is becoming too strong. We must crush her.« Winston Churchill to American General Robert E. Wood, in November 1936. Quoted in: Peter H. Nicoll, Englands Krieg gegen Deutschland, p. 83.

»We will force this war upon Hitler, if he wants it or not.« Winston Churchill (1936 broadcast)

»This war is an English war and its goal is the destruction of Germany ... I've dreamed of it, I've been working for it, and now it happened.« Winston Churchill remarks to England's declaration of war on Germany, Autumn 1939 broadcast

»Germany's unforgivable crime before WW II was its attempt to loosen its economy out of the world trade system and to build up an independent exchange system from which the world-finance couldn't profit anymore. ...We butchered the wrong pig.« Winston Churchill (The Second World War - Bern, 1960)

»The war wasn't only about abolishing fascism, but to conquer sales markets. We could have, if we had intended so, prevented this war from breaking out without firing one shot, but we didn't want to.« Winston Churchill to Truman (Fultun, USA March 1946)

»...Secret documents reveal: London rejected peace initiatives in 1940. Heretofore undisclosed secret British cabinet-papers from the year 1940, released now after the regulated 30-year ban, indicate that in July and August 1940 the British War Cabinet under Winston Churchill rejected several peace feelers from German and neutral hand.« The German newspaper "Augsburger Allgemeine" on January 2nd 1970

»We have subsequently learned what the German Resistance during the war wouldn't want to grasp: The war was not fought against Hilter, but against Germany.« Eugen Gerstenmaier, Presiding Officer of the German Parliament 1954, during the war member of the "Confessing Church"

»Of Belgium and Germany he will make such a slaughter-house that it will be necessary to build new and taller dykes around Holland that the smell of the carnage might not befoul a country for which his outraged memory will have no terrors. Through France he will sweep as a conflagration sweeps through a cornfield.« Samuel Roth about the coming war, Now and Forever (New York 1925, page 42)

»For months now the struggle against Germany is waged by each Jewish community, at each conference, in all our syndicates, and by each Jew all over the world. There is reason to believe that our part in this struggle has general value. We will trigger a spiritual and material war of all the world against Germany's ambitions to become once again a great nation, to recover lost territories and colonies. But our Jewish interests demand the complete destruction of Germany. Collectively and individually, the German nation is a threat to us Jews.« Vladimir Jabotinsky (founder of the Jewish terrorist group, Irgun Zvai Leumi) in Mascha Rjetsch, January, 1934 (also quoted in Histoire de l'Armée Allemande by Jacques Benoist-Mechin, Vol. IV, p. 303).

»Germany is our public enemy number one. It is our object to declare war without mercy against her. One may be sure of this: We will lead that war!« Bernard Lecache, President of the World Jewish League, Nov. 9, 1938

»It is our task to organize the moral and cultural blockade of Germany and disperse this nation. It is up to us to start a merciless war.« Bernard Lecache, President of the World Jewish League, Dec. 1938 in the French newspaper „Droit de vivre“

»Hitler doesn't want war but he will be forced to it, and in fact soon. England has the final say like in 1914.« Zionist Emil Ludwig Cohn "Annalen", June 1934

»Even if Hitler at the last moment would want to avoid war which would destroy him he will, in spite of his wishes, be compelled to wage war.« Emil Ludwig Cohen in his book 'The New Holy Alliance', Strasburg, 1938:

Patton emphasized he was there »to annihilate the Germans and the godless Hitler« and he appreciated how »You supplied excellent weather for our armored dash across France.« <http://www.historynet.com/battle-of-the-bulge>

»While we still lack details as to how far Gen. Eisenhower is succeeding in his ambition to annihilate the German forces west of the Rhine, we are in the comfortable position of knowing that, quite apart from his main objective, he is piling up a great and far-reaching victory.« Spokane Daily Chronicle, 2. März 1945

»Germany will not be occupied for the purpose of liberation but as a defeated enemy nation.« Directive JCS 1067 by US-President Roosevelt, March 23rd 1945

»The Germans would have to be angels and saints to forget and forgive all the injustices, atrocities and cruelties which they have suffered, twice in a generation, without any provocation, from the Allies. Just imagine what would we, as Americans, do if we had been treated as we treated the Germans, our cruelty would have no limits in revenging our suffering!« Reverend Ludwig A. Fritsch, Ph. D., D. D. emer., Chicago, 1948

»Actually, the Germans are the only decent people left in Europe. It's a choice between them and the Russians. I prefer the Germans.« US-General George Patton in his diary on August 31 1945

»We won this war with atrocity propaganda and now we will start more than ever! We will continue this atrocity propaganda, we will increase it until nobody will accept one good word from the Germans anymore, until everything is destroyed which might have upheld them sympathies in other countries, and until they will be so confused that they don't know what to do anymore. When this is reached, when they begin to pollute their own nest, and this not reluctantly but with hasty willingness to obey the winners, only then the victory is complete. It will never be definite. The reeducation demands thorough, steadfast nurture like an English lawn. Only one moment of inattention and the weed will break through, this ineradicable weed of historic truth.« Denis Sefton Delmer, British chief propagandist after the capitulation of Germany in 1945 to the then German expert on International law Professor Grimm

»The only good Kraut is a dead Kraut.« Patrick Moore, Dailymail UK, 1 May 2012

With all the unlimited hypocrisy and phoniness of the post-war era it's just logical that the liar, warmonger and co-inventor of the industrial mass murder by carpet-bombing cities – Winston Churchill – was awarded with the International Charlemagne Prize of the City of Aachen in 1955 and celebrated as a “great European”, while Rudolf Hess who flew to Britain, at the peril of his life, to offer peace, was imprisoned for over 40 years as a “Nazi War Criminal”, and eventually got finished off by the British Secret Service, as his Tunesian care worker testified.

Rudolf Hess was imprisoned in the “War Criminal Prison” in Berlin-Spandau. Any contact to the outer world was rejected, and even visiting relatives had to go through worst restrictions. There used to be a rotating watch on a monthly base, and the former Soviet Union had announced in 1987 they would release Hess by the start of their next watch. Since Hess was one of the very few high-level functionaries of the German Reich still alive, and - to crown it all - had exact knowledge about the events at the time, all alarm bells started ringing in certain circles. Under no circumstances this man would be allowed to talk to any living soul outside the prison – ever again. So they put an electric wire around a man's neck, who suffered from arthritis in his hands and wasn't even able to lift them above belt level.

End of Part 1

“Since 05.45 h fire has now been returned”
A different kind of reckoning

Part 2

By Kurzer

An enlightening key document about many apparent contradictions of younger world history is the Rakovsky-interview.

Here, the high level initiate Rakovsky, who was taken captive during Stalin's actions against the Trotskyists, outlines to his astonished GPU-interrogator GPU = [short for "State Political Directorate" - the Russian secret police] the forces that truly drive communism and capitalism.

You need to know that Trotsky was the designated successor of Lenin, who was insidiously poisoned. Stalin, who wasn't privy to all plans, got in the way in the key moment and had all Trotskyists relentlessly persecuted.

An interesting detail not even mentioned in the Rakovsky-interview is the following:

The Khazars, who reclaimed power over „their country“ by the revolution, had an old ordinance. Thus they always had two kings; one was called ‘Bek’ - a puppet for the people. The one in possession of the real power, however, was called ‘Khagan’ and always acted from behind the scenes. Stalin's brother-in-law and grey eminence was Lazar Moisejevich Kaghanovich. This puts a whole new complexion on the struggle for power between Stalin (the Bek) and Trotsky. Kaghanovich, who amongst other things was responsible for the mass murder on Ukrainian farmers (by confiscating entire harvests), passed away unchallenged and at an old age in Moscow in 1991.

Besides, the Rakovsky-interview is a true stock, as the reader incidentally learns that the man with the alias ‘Karl Marx’ had left one little fact unmentioned in his multivolume works on criticising capitalism. Marx put mercantilists and big capitalists on the same level, while not mentioning the bankers who are the ones to benefit from all.

Rakovsky explained the fraudulent phony money system to Kusmin, and gave him some very important information about Hitler. He told him, that Hitler had intuitively created a genius economic system, which under no circumstances was allowed to catch on, and he drafted a perfidious plan to trap Hitler. As a result, curiously enough, Germany was condemned by the “global public” for its legitimate attack on Poland, but the Soviet invasion in eastern Poland happened to take place without ado. This plan was part of the reason why the local conflict between Germany and Poland could expand to a World War, in which the “democratic” states lined up with the Soviets to fight the German Reich.

One awesome detail of Rakovsky's elaborations is that he revealed to his interrogator as a sideline, what is the biggest secret of Freemasonry: It's only an instrument to superior powers, Rakovsky called “Those”, in achieving their power objectives.

Every fellow mason needs to take this read to heart. This much for now: everything the Worshipful Master says is a LIE.

The Rakovsky-Interview - Red Symphony

And here's another perfect fit: »... The entire Freemasonry is nothing more than a badly enlightened front anteroom to a secret society, who's objectives and intentions are not in any way known to the Freemasonries...« (Piccoli-Tigre, 33 degree Freemason and coeval with Garibaldi and Mazzini)

During the military campaign in Poland there was a very reasonable peace initiative by Mussolini, quite acceptable for all sides, but it was sabotaged by the British through unfulfillable demands. Even after the military campaign there was a high number of peace initiatives by Adolf Hitler, who still called on reason and on the English sister people, because he hadn't yet realized, to which extend the conspirators had Britain under their control. Britain didn't fight this war for the interest of the British people, which took decades to become obvious: ‘This isn't the Britain we fought for’ (DailyMail, 21 Nov 2009)

Since the “Red Army” (Rothchild's Army) was, armed to the teeth, ready to overrun Europe all the way to the Atlantic Ocean, the Wehrmacht engaged in a pre-emptive strike. An excellent works regarding this topic is: The Chief Culprit: Stalin's Grand Design to Start World War II (by Viktor Surorov)

The great initial success of this attack was due to the circumstance that the “Red Army” was battled for attack, not for defence. The legend of the highly geared up Wehrmacht invading the peace-loving Soviet Union is totally disassembled in Suvorov's book.

By the way, the German squaddies called their 37 mm a ‘knocking-on-a-tank-device’, since it wouldn't harm the heavily armoured Russian T34 at all. That tank, on the other hand, neither had a range finder, nor an optical periscope and back then the Germans were still masters of improvisation and quickly learned, that an 88 mm anti-aircraft cannon was perfectly suitable to combat tanks. The actual numerical proportions concerning the Soviet and German armament speak for themselves. The number of tanks and their specifications alone (armour, cannon...) are proof of who planned to overrun who. So the Russians had so-called light wheeled tanks, which were solely applicable on the roads and streets in Central and Western Europe. German tanks like Tiger and Panther, which were not only a match, but superior to the Russian tanks, were initially deployed no earlier than by the end of 1942, beginning of 1943.

The extremely high number of casualties on side of the Russians during the entire war didn't have anything to do with alleged barbaric warfare by the Germans, but with sheer ignorance regarding human life by the Bolsheviks. In this sense even the battle of Stalingrad, which was lost by the Germans, was a true fiasco considering the human and material losses the Russians had to accept for their victory. And even in the Battle of Seelow Heights it was still Marshall Zhukov's “tried and tested” tactic to chase masses to the front over and over again, while commissioners stayed behind on their MGs shooting everyone who wasn't willing to be sent to the slaughter.

The combat strength of the Wehrmacht, but in particular the Waffen-SS were unmatched. Thus, in the final weeks of the war, American forces only attacked when they could be sure to have at least five times as many troops plus additional air support. Our Italian allies were seen by Hitler as a people that had quite a lot in common with Germany, and to win the Duce's trust he handed South Tyrol over to Italy. The vast majority of South Tyroleans, despite the loss of their country, one of the most beautiful regions worldwide, opted pro Empire and fought bravely for it to the end. When Hitler, after Italy's betrayal, announced on the radio that the southern border of the German Empire now runs at Salorno, jubilation in South Tyrol was beyond description.

The value of the Italian forces was rather low, except the very few who kept fighting sided with the Germans after Italy's renunciation. Tellingly the Wehrmacht had to pull the chestnuts out of the fire for the Italians, in the Balkans as well as in North Africa, but when US-forces landed on Sicily the Italians laid down their arms without any necessity.

Here's another little detail: Mussolini consequently fought the Mafia and thus many of their Dons went to the US. The Americans secured these people for the promise of them getting back high influence in the “liberated” and “democratic” Italy, and pulled a few of their strings to Sicily to “alleviate” the landing of their forces.

What do we learn from this? Italians build very nice cars and have an excellent cuisine. They may please the world with these two blessings, but as for an ally you should look for somebody else. By the way, back then the German squaddies created the adage of the "disloyal tomato", meaning faithless friend.

The darkest chapter of the German Reich, which neither on that day, nor at any point in time after that has perished, but since then was, and until today is, under alien administration, began with the unconditional surrender of all parts of the Wehrmacht on 8 May 1945.

In 1945 very few Germans felt "liberated" and if so, they only felt liberated of everything they considered sacred. A particularly dark chapter of the "liberation" was the millions of desecrations and rapes of women, even infants.

With the so-called "Nuremberg Trials against the major war criminals before the International Military Tribunal" something unthinkable in history to that time happened. The victors sat in judgement over the defeated, under rules and laws they themselves had created during the war. According to their standards ALL so-called victorious powers would have had to stand in the dock, even if it was only for the killing and displacement of millions of Germans after 8 May 1945, and also for their barbaric aerial warfare. The German side had never planned a mass use of bombers for the destruction of cities and the killing of countless civilians.

On side of the Allies such was already considered in the 1920s, and evidently it was England who started the terror bombing. The civilian casualties of German air raids on Rotterdam or Coventry would nowadays be dismissed as collateral damage, and was in no way to compare with the Anglo-American bombings of, for instance, Hamburg or Dresden. Thus a German city was rebuilt in the desert of Utah to have real conditions for testing, and trying to ignite a totally devastating firestorm. That was then perfectly performed later in Dresden.

The number of casualties lied down and lowered by so-called "Historian-Commissions" just rounds out the image of the federal German "technical historian".

Interesting again is what Douglas Reed, who is very critical of National Socialism, writes about the Nuremberg Trials in his book "The Controversy of Zion":

Quote: »By the choice of the Jewish Day of Judgement for the hanging of the Nazi leaders and German commanders the Western leaders gave the conclusion of the Second War this aspect of a vengeance exacted specifically in the name of 'the Jews'. The shape which the trial took showed the purpose of the immense propaganda of falsification conducted during the war, which I have earlier described. 'Crimes against Jews' were singled out as a separate count, as if Jews were different from other human beings (and when the judgement was delivered a hundred million human beings in Eastern Europe had been handed over to the general persecution of all men, from which Jews in their proportion suffered in Germany).«

While the verdicts were handed down, approximately one hundred million suffered under a tyranny, which was no different than the one the Jews had to suffer under, according to their share of the population. The charges of persecution and murder of Jews became to what the British military historian Liddell Hart called the "cornerstone" of the Nuremberg Trials. It was based on the assertion that six million Jews "had been killed" or "perished". A neutral court would have rejected such charges right from the start as being utterly unprovable, but in Nuremberg jurists, who if it would have been an unpolitical case would have claimed the verdict of not guilty due to insufficient evidence, appealed to this numeral fabrication to get a conviction.

Quote: »The estimate is historically valueless. The starting-point for consideration of this question is the fact that six million Jews, or anything approaching that number, cannot possibly have been 'done to death' or caused to 'perish', for the reasons given at the start of this discussion; the very assertion, made before the Nuremberg court, was an affront to their 825,000 fighting-men, sailors and civilians, killed in all theatres of war, of which only the Western politicians of this century would have been capable.«

»The reason, hidden from them, became clear with the hangings on the Jewish Day of Judgement, for this symbolic act set the pattern for the entire conduct of the occupation, on both sides of the line, in its early years, and even for the future conduct of Western foreign policy far outside the bounds of Europe. The Talmudic vengeance was the start of a new era in the history of the West, during which all national considerations were to be subordinated to the cause of Jewish nationhood, as represented by the Talmudists from Russia.«

Part of the vengeance pertaining to the Old Testament was Truman's and Stalin's agreement at the Potsdam Conference: The term "REICH" had to be fully eliminated from the German consciousness.

Since only the REICH holds the future and the salvation of the Germans and the entire world. Seen from this angle everyone should reconsider the everyday baiting on ALL Allied licensed media channels against the German Reich and National Socialism.

Many are too brainwashed and therefore overwhelmed with such statements and perceive this valuation of the Reich's role as arrogant and megalomaniac. Those may take to heart the words of Roger G. Dommergue Pollaco de Menasce, a Jew who lived in France at the time, who wrote in an essay published in 1989 called 'Auschwitz: The silence of Heidegger or minor details' [French, German]:

»... that National Socialism was the last chance for mankind, the last attempt to revive a society steeped in tradition according to the laws of nature...«

I highly recommend anyone to read it in full and marvel at what a Jew has to say about Hitler, National Socialism and his own kind.

Thereby we arrive on the topic of revisionism. Interesting enough, a lot of revisionists come from countries that were confronted with Germany as enemy during the war. The Frenchman Paul Rassinier, who co-founded the "Libré-Nord", underground resistance organization, and was arrested and deported to Buchenwald in 1943, wrote several books published in an English translation under the title "The Holocaust Story and the Lies of Ulysses". Those were his answer to the tales some of his comrades told about the "Nazi atrocities" after they came home.

»With regard to gas chambers, the almost endless procession of false witnesses and of falsified documents to which I have invited the reader's attention during this long study, proves, nevertheless, only one thing: never at any moment did the responsible authorities of the Third Reich intend to order — or, in fact, order — the extermination of the Jews in this or any other manner. Did such exterminations take place without orders? This question has haunted me for 15 years.« (Source)

Another very prominent revisionist is Rassinier's fellow countryman Robert Faurisson. He used to be a professor of French literature at the University of Lyon/France and critically discussed the origin of historic sources and documents. Based on Rassinier's work he began to travel Europe and consulted survivors of different German concentration camps, and he found NO ONE, whose reports about a specific crime imputed to the Germans were credible.

From Wikipedia: »Faurisson's activism as a Holocaust denier first surfaced in 1974, when he contacted Yad Vashem with a lengthy letter detailing a variety of arguments which he claimed demonstrated that there had been no genocide of Jews during World War II. These assertions were based on his own interpretation of archival records and his skepticism about the assertions and testimony of various historical figures, including Nazi officials such as Rudolf Hess.

He became involved with the Institute for Historical Review during the 1970s, lecturing and publishing prolifically. He twice testified in defense of Canadian-German Holocaust denier Ernst Zündel, and his testimony has been associated with laying the groundwork for the 'Leuchter Report', a Holocaust-denial publication which has been influential.«

From that time on he met with extreme hostility and similar to the Federal Republic of Germany laws were implemented, that penalised questioning the official narrative. Any questions?

As mentioned above, Robert Faurisson was one of Ernst Zündel's defenders, a German who left the country for Canada after the war, because of the told stories about German atrocities.

In Canada he became undeceived, thanks to a Canadian which made him yet another important revisionist. Due to his explanatory work there were two trials in Toronto in 1985 and 1988, where in both cases a huge contribution to clarification of history was made.

For those of you who master German please check out this Interview with the German public-sector broadcaster, which never aired: [Ernst Zündel unzensiertes \(nie ausgestrahltes\) Interview ZDF 1999]

Another milestone: Britain's Blunder: How England Lost the Second World War: An Objective Study of the Second World War-Its Cause, Conduct, and Consequence by Peter H. Nicoll.

Very few books about the causes, conducts and consequences of WW II are this timeless, thoroughly proven and close to the historic truth, as this one written by a Scottish historian.

Though having lost two sons as pilots against Germany, his fanatic sense of justice understood who had driven the world into this »unnecessary war«, and who was the main culprit for the tragic developments: blinded politicians in Britain who, backed by US-president Roosevelt, gave Poland a carte blanche in March 1939, and rejected every peace initiative by the German government. Equally thorough he deals with the methods of warfare, and the way Germany was treated by the Allies after the war, and depicts the enormous guilt of the victors. So there are countless honest people in the world fighting for historic truth with commitment.

An excellent book about the Nuremberg Trials is: Nuremberg and other War Writings - by Richard Harwood.

When our people 80 years ago made the „premature“ attempt to fulfil Jesus' prophecy, it granted itself the unbridled hatred of the Dark Side, which set up the entire world against Germany. Our ancestors trusted their intuition and began to search for a way out. And they found it. „Operation Ahnenerbe“ [„Operation Ancestor's Heritage“] was initiated. Through global research and medial messages from our ancestors, they learned about old high civilisations and their technology.

With this knowledge the real „wonder weapons“ were developed, but not deployed back then and we will soon learn in its entirety why. The „German“ arch traitors contributed to that, though they were unable to infiltrate the inner circle of initiates, they sensed what Germany was working on and passed that intel on to the Allies, who then planned an overhasty landing in the Normandy, which also only succeeded due to high treason in our own ranks. I could easily elaborate on this in detail, but that would take us too far afield.

Just ask yourself: Why did US-General Patton (who later called the Germans »the only decent people left in Europe«), in complete disregard of all rules in military (like for instance flank security), march straight towards Jonastal in Thuringia?

Once the Germans understood that the situation became too precarious, all technology and the (re-)developers were moved to safety, and the mainly subterranean facilities were sealed, so NO ONE can access them. The Americans were allowed to find something (like for instance the two nuclear bombs), which set off such a luck frenzy, they didn't even realise what they actually failed to get. Once they did, they initiated „Operation Highjump“ and sent Admiral Byrd to Antarctica.

The circumstance, that the men of the disengagement movement had sworn never to attack, did not forbid them to defend themselves though. The result was a drub for the Allies. The aircraft-carrier

"Casablanca" was turned into a swimming pile of junk, and that actually is of some meaning, since the unconditional surrender of the German Reich was postulated in the town of Casablanca/Marocco in 1943. What a co-incidence...

Although: None of this officially ever happened: »USS Casablanca; Launched 5 April 1943, Commissioned 8 July 1943, Decommissioned 10 June 1946, Fate: Sold for scrap.« (Wikipedia)

"Operation Highjump" was aborted in total panic, and since that time the Allies face an ultimatum by the Third Power, our protecting power. Why do you think several military pacts were made after 1947, against a German Reich that was officially defeated, prostrated and disarmed?

And why did the German politician Egon Bahr say on FRG-television: »Both German states are held hostage by the Allies.« Hostage to whom? And why does the chivy against the German Reich and National Socialism, even after 68 years, still increase excessively?

If you refuse to believe any of this you should watch the documentary "Third Reich - Operation UFO", produced by the Russian company "Gold Media", where high ranking Russian scientists and military officers (not crazy little German "Neo-Nazis") betray secrets.

One of the best books on this topic is: "Das Gegenteil ist wahr" ["The opposite is true", in German] by Johannes Jürgenson

And here's an excerpt from „Notizen aus der Schweiz“ („Notes from Switzerland“) by Dr. Max Wahl:

»...heroic words of the most hated, most admired and most loved Greats of the Greater German Empire barely make it through the accepted system-opinion nowadays. Still it would be recommended to anyone who loves his family, his friends and his people to take a look at the last essays, presentations, speeches and words of farewell of leading figures of the German Reich. In many cases you will find truly heroic words from a great time, also spoken for present times, where we see wars initiated by the international Jewry. Those thoughts though, will only be considered 'heroic' by those, who know about the build-up and history of the national socialistic movement and the Greater German Empire.

It's commonly known that since 1945 Jewish agitators and apologists insulted everything that reminds of the greatness of the German Reich and its last outstanding leadership. Speeches such as by Reich Minister Dr. Joseph Goebbels or Reich Organisation Leader Dr. Robert Ley, and other proclamations by cadres out of party and economy, are summarily defamed as mendacious 'calls for perseverance', because the writing vermin doesn't know anything about the life of the people's community and the European brotherhood in arms at that time, and they also can't even guess how feverish the Reich was working on the defeat of the Soviet-American-Capital-Bolshevism, and which achievements ensued.

It mustn't be true for them, that extraordinary and fate twisting weapon systems had been invented and provided, and that they were shown to major people in charge. Prudently and for tactical reasons, nothing specific about them and their utilization was dared to be released. Their deployment would have had to speak for itself and possibly does today, supposedly delayed but still at the right time. Why they weren't deployed back then can't be explained with delays and sabotage alone.

Why entire units of the army, armed to the teeth, (like e.g. 400.000 men in Norway) weren't called into action on certain sectors of the front, had never been discussed by the stunned last government of the Reich under Admiral Dönitz.

It's irrelevant if those in power today still make up their mind about this or not. They may arm themselves and set themselves up, without telling us against whom; fate takes its course. The haste of them oppressing the people of Europe with their hatred is ambiguous, and somehow amusing.

Because something higher is under way, impossible to avoid. Evil and lies will be shattered by the good and true...«

Back to the starting point. Since the “chosen ones” have lost their boss and coordinator, they simply keep on doing what they do in want of a plan B. They work towards a worldwide currency crash or a third world war (though the second technically hasn’t ended yet). But all those plans will fail because in the end the Reich will “cut off the energy” of those elements.

A physicist that used to work on those revolutionary developments, and wasn’t evacuated for reasons she wouldn’t share, told a friend of mine regarding this:

»...We were decades ahead of the Allies back then and we’re CENTURIES AHEAD OF THEM TODAY...«

The reason why they allow things to happen as they do today, is that many people (sleeping souls) need to wake up first.

Very interesting as well, and another proof of the disengagement movement, is the following:

The Allies didn’t end their policy of killing as many Germans as possible after the ceasefire of May 8 1945:

»At least 9.3 million Germans died needlessly soon after the war, the great majority because of the conditions imposed by the four major victors. This is many more Germans than died in battle, air raids and concentration camps during the war. Millions of these people slowly starved to death in front of the victor’s eyes every day for years. These deaths have never been honestly reported by either the Allies or the German government.« Crimes and Mercies: The Fate of German Civilians Under Allied Occupation, 1944-1950 by James Bacque (Page 101)

Almost one million Germans died in the so-called “Camp of the Rhine meadows” after May 8 1945, without necessity from starvation, thirst and exhaustion - many more than German soldiers during the entire campaign in the west. All this is very well documented on Rheinwiesenlager.de [in English].

In the end the Morgenthau Plan and the Kaufman Plan for the depopulation of Germany had to be implemented. And all of a sudden from 1947 on, after the “Operation Highjump”-fiasco, the Allies changed their occupation policy. By midyear 1948 a currency reform was implemented in the western occupation zones, which led to a very quick economic recovery. Obviously someone must have been told, that there would be a giant problem if the hostages were not going to be treated properly.

Also, as soon as 1949 two German „states“ were established. The former ally overnight became a “Threat from the East”, and the “Iron Curtain” was drawn over Europe. Suddenly the two brothers US – SU, who coincidentally had the same five-pointed star on their tanks rolling against the Reich, had become deadly enemies. What a wonderful alibi for the unbounded costs of armament in the following decades. Against who might they have armed?

Even though there was a very serious opponent now: Zion never lost sight of its objective – total global dominance. So the miracle of Perestroika happened in the Soviet Union and on 9 Nov 1989 the [Berlin] wall came down. Eventually the beautiful One-World can’t be established while states, officially armed to the teeth, are hostile towards each other.

What the general public back then didn’t understand: a reunification in 1990 did not happen. Listen to what the German politician Otto Schily had to say in a television debate in 1989:

»...A restoration of the German Empire - that would be a reunification - cannot happen...« (Video on YouTube [in German])

We witnessed the liquidation of the German Democratic Republic as an instrument of occupation law, and its affiliation to the Federal Republic of Germany as another instrument of occupation law. Neither of each at any time was a sovereign state and the FRG, despite every objection, didn't become one in 1990. A very prominent witness for this "conspiracy theory" is the German Minister of Finance Wolfgang Schäuble who, on the European Banking Congress on Nov 18 2011 in Frankfurt, stated: »... and we in Germany haven't been fully sovereign at any point in time since 8 May 1945...« (Video on YouTube [in German])

The Basic Law in Germany was implemented to »take all the measures ... to restore, and ensure, as far as possible, public order and safety« in an occupied area (ref. to the Hague Convention concerning the Laws and Customs of War on Land, Reg. Act 43).

That's exactly what the FRG was, and still is after 1990. While some effort was made until 1990 to sell this whole entity as a sovereign state, after that they had been using the sledgehammer to privatise whatever possible. The Postal Office became the Postal Agency, the Employment Office was turned into an Employment Agency, administrative bodies of towns and villages became Citizens Advice Bureaus. The FRG is a simple administration under foreign regulation, run by a Federal Government (what exactly is the 'Federation'?) to be openly salvaged like a company. And FRG courts dispense 'justice' in the name of the people (which people?).

Judges are tied to instructions of politicians, but wisely don't sign any of their verdicts. The reason for that is, that the "old" FRG (pre 1990) had withdrawn the so-called "state liability" back in the 1980s, meaning that everybody is fully accountable for all his actions, also the alleged state of public officials of course, who aren't "state" officials anyway. They are simply employees of a private company and therefore have a company ID card ("Personalausweis"), instead of a valid official card. The private security firm of the FRG acts under the registered word mark "Polizei" (police), and last but not least this "state" cannot offer a state nationality, which also is a giant fraud against those millions of people, who were brought into this country and were "naturalised".

Until about 5 years ago, until probably too many people had realised, a website of the Bavarian State Ministry of the Interior read:

Bavarian State Ministry of the Interior – Proof (Certificate of Nationality)

»The German nationality can be substantiated by a Certificate of Nationality (Certificate of Citizenship). It is issued by the designated body for citizenship. The Bundespersonalausweis [German ID-card] or the German Passport do not constitute proof of the German nationality, but only the assumption that the holder is of German nationality. The application for a Certificate of Nationality is to be submitted to the designated body for citizenship. ...

The application needs to describe all personal data of the applicant and his ancestors back to the year 1938. This means, the applicant first needs to verify his descent. German Nationality will be confirmed to the applicant if he proves or at least verifies that he, and p.r.n. those whom he deduces his nationality from, have been treated as German Nationals (Germans) at the latest since 1 Jan 1938.«

In the meantime the new version of this statement is all washy, because most of the people that moved here after 1945 can't provide the evidence. But of course all this is not about state nationalities, but about long-term power objectives, and in order to achieve those, the destruction of states, peoples and historically grown structures are a basic requirement.

Just a quick interjection regarding xenophobia: I have a very good friend from Romania, and this woman embarrasses a high number of Germans with her commitment and dedication for historic truth and a just world. She would be the first for me to support in getting the Reich-nationality – meaning a real nationality – after a real change in this country finally took place.

If only a fractional amount of the money, that is being burnt in the migration industry, would have been used for a meaningful family policy for Germans, there would be no demographic problem today. Instead the Germans are being urged to hate themselves, to be egoistic and alienated from their true roots. And an FRG-comedian needs to tell them that they »have the damn duty to become extinct«.

The reason for the recruiting-deal with Turkey in 1961 was not, that there was too little work force in the densely populated German leftovers, but that our "American friends" needed Turkey as an ally and could, as a sideline, get their migration-project aka "Guest Workers" on its way. And we do want to bear in mind that the US has been nothing less but Zion's instrument since 1913.

As such instrument they naturally and incessantly cover the world with wars and misery, generating uncounted more "migrants". Let's hear another "prominent" witness for this:

»Germany must to be fenced and then kind of heterogeneously diluted by an inward flow.« Recension to the book "Risiko Deutschland" by the former German 'green' politician Joschka Fischer.

»This is not about the right or wrong of the migration-debate, we primarily want the repression of the German part of the population in this country.« Supposedly said by the Munich-manager of the green party.

Obviously, the resettlement of people in Europe and the transformation of people, who are proud of their homeland, to "consumers", living in areas to be looted by Big Money, is a matter of the heart to any free mason. A spiritual father of this project was the founder of the "Panuropean Union", Count Coudenhove-Kalergi. As early as back in the 1920s he declared the meaning of democracy as follows:

»Nowadays, Democracy is nothing more than a façade for plutocracy. Because the nations no longer tolerate naked plutocracy, their masters allow them nominal power, while retaining factual power in the hands of the plutocrats. In republican as well as monarchical democracies the statesmen are but puppets and the capitalists are their string-pullers. The capitalists dictate national policy guidelines and control the electorate by manufacturing public opinion, controlling the ministers through their financial and social connections.«

Said the founder of the „Panuropean Union“, Richard Nikolaus Count Coudenhove-Kalergi, in his book "Practical Idealism", published 1925 in Vienna. He »...represents the creator of the European idea in its modern shape...«, so the official flyer of "Panuropa Deutschland e.V.".

Also see: Practical Idealism

And if you look at the list of members of the "Panuropean Union" I'm assuming that many of the believers of the system would apostatise. The Bavarian Prime Minister Horst Seehofer proved the actuality of Kalergi's statements:

»...Those who make the decisions are not elected, and those elected have no say...« (Video on YouTube [in German])

And taking the biscuit, we're going to have another federal election [in autumn 2017] where we may vote for those without say. As if since 1945 we had a choice anyway.

What actually appears to be a little juicy is that there is a big debate going on about our invalid electoral law [there was a decision by the constitutional high court in Germany in 2012, which technically declared all elections back to the 1950s illegal, but the majority doesn't really care, and just continues its rat race]. So who ever takes part in elections in the FRG in fact accepts the dictatorship of the occupants.

It's totally logical that the former GDR-propaganda-and-agitation-employee Merkel is chancellor of the Germans today. In that position she can pursue, what always seemed to be her "call": propaganda. And so the physical chemist doctorate Angela Merkel makes sure, that »the profession of physical chemists in Germany isn't held in high esteem anymore, since she fights laws of nature with taxpayer money.« (Quote by Michael Winkler, a German author and blogger). An awesome comment regarding "Controlling Climate Change".

The last party eligible to stand for election, and obviously a FRG's accident at work, was the Socialist Reich Party, co-founded by General Remer. The party got banned and the movement more or less died with it. It really appears to be a hypothetical question, if the National Democratic Party of Germany was a creation of domestic intelligence, or infiltrated after it was founded. They probably said to themselves: before our opponents organise themselves, it should rather be us organising them, hence have them under control. And apropos of nothing, the stereotype of the dumb, uneducated, mega-brutal and xenophobic Neo-Nazi arose, and therefore any effort for national German interests was discredited.

The creation of the NSU-phantom [an alleged group of Nazis, accused to have killed Turks in Germany] and the related farce of a trial serve the same purpose. There airs the general persecutor and responds to the question, of a truly investigative journalist (so no MSM), how to appreciate the fact that Mrs. Zschäpe [the main defendant] was seen at none of the crime scenes, but a known intelligence-agent was, that that were »of no relevance«. The "constitutional democracy" will of course straighten things up in the "Name of the People".

This is the context of countless trials concerning prosecutions for certain opinions in the FRG. While the mainstream media shreds crocodile tears over non-existent 'freedom of expression' in China or elsewhere, a system in its death throes locks away the German spiritual titan Horst Mahler at the age of 73 years for twelve years. Not because of murder, rape or other real crimes, which are treated like peccadillos when committed by certain foreigners, but because of having the wrong opinion regarding certain aspects of history.

A couple of years ago Horst told me about judges allowing dates to elapse, or they suddenly got sick the day right before the hearings, just to not be confronted with him. One shouldn't think that all judges are so stupid not to realise the burlesque. It even got to the point, that a retired judge congratulated Horst Mahler on the street with a clasp of hands, and told him to proceed. And then a particularly eager brother came, believing he had to sacrifice something extraordinary to his daemon, and convicted Horst to twelve years in prison.

Again, to make it absolutely clear to all fellow masons: read and grasp the Rakovsky-interview, you are being used as a simple means to an end!

Satan, worshipped by your superiors, was recalled from earth a number of years ago by the Cosmic Order. The dark power's game ends NOW. While having correct information, it's almost amusing so see how some of the more knowing stay put, or even start to curry favour with the other side, while the main street is being chased into the final battle against the extreme right.

After the fall of the Berlin wall there certainly were a few people, though not being in the know of all plans, who saw the economic potential of a reunited Germany. Alfred Herrhausen [chairman of the Deutsche Bank] as well as Detlev Karsten Rohwedder [a German politician] saw a realistic chance for »blooming pastures« [©Helmut Kohl, former Chancellor of the FRG], and were willing to work very hard for it. Both were taken out by the RAF-phantom [Red Army Fraction, alleged West-German terrorist organisation, very likely founded and run by domestic intelligence]. How convenient. Now, one could get back to business as usual and keep looting the country.

While Rohwedder as manager of the [Treuhandanstalt = Trust Agency] estimated the GDR would be »worth around 600 Billion«, Birgit Breuel [his successor] managed to dump a few hundred Billion with the Trust Agency, since the profit of those given the GDR government enterprises as a gift needed to be just big enough.

Displacement by other means is what I would call what happened then in central Germany. Refloatable companies were closed down, and overnight hundreds of thousands of highly qualified workers and engineers had to go in early retirement, were made insurance reps or technically forced to leave their home westbound. And while in the FRG today more and more highly qualified people, willing to work hard, prefer to leave this country, all kinds of short-changed people of the world are being invited to come.

Of course it's politically incorrect to ask, why an Afghan or Moroccan, if it's impossible for him to stay in his own country, doesn't feel like going to one of the bordering countries. In the end all Goyim's shall blend, everything else would be racist. Except of course our "chosen" friends. Israel quite openly refers to the Nuremberg Laws [reg. races]; Jew is who has a Jewish mother. In case of doubt a genetic test is made.

»Intermarriage is suicide - national and personal! There is no surer way to destroy the Jewish people than to marry out of the faith. Unchecked the present trend of young Jewish boys and girls to choose maters of other or no religious affiliations will slowly but surely wipe out the unique Jewish identity. The values and principles which contributed so much to contemporary culture and civilization will vanish from the face of the earth. The accumulated experience of three thousand years, the rich heritage of a people, all of which are rightfully yours, are being ignobly ignored and cast aside. What a pity! What a waste! What a shame! ... Do you realize what you are throwing away?« Full-page spread in the New York Times by the National Committee for Furtherance of Jewish Education

To make sure this will also work in the future, Jews may of course lie to a Goy, since once a year the "chosen ones" cite the Kol-Nidre-chant, which will absolve them of all lies told against non-Jews. And if it comes to the worst one simply protests: »I hardly exaggerate. Jewish life consists of two elements: Extracting money and protesting.« Nahum Goldmann in The Jewish Paradox, Frankfurt 1978

Obviously "modern" science and the universities today serve the NWO. It's no dissent that a few honest scientists and great minds do not offer themselves to Zion. Gary Allen described in his book "None Dare Call it Conspiracy", what counts for the vast majority: one could risk being disinvited from a party of social parvenus and loose one's social status with all associated privileges by contravening whatever doctrine it may be.

Mainstream medicine, which generally speaking is pretty morbid (excluding the pleasant exception of accident surgery), is a very "good" example. They fight symptoms instead of finding the cause, and resolving a disease or sickness. Medications with several side effects are proscribed, chronically ill people are created, and of course loads of them decease by receiving wrong or too much therapy. It should be clear, latest since the findings of Dr. Hamer's New Germanic Medicine, that illness is a special programme of nature to draw attention to the human being, that something in his life needs to change.

Looking at cancer that way it loses its horror as an illness compelling one to die. Instead of receiving the next shock causing another conflict (metastases), because a white-coat tells us we only have one more year to live, we realise that solving the conflict behind the "illness" makes us overcome it. By the way, regarding Koch's postulate: the evidence for viruses being responsible for any illness (for instance AIDS) has never been provided.

The fairy tale of limited energy resources is another dark chapter of the suppression of knowledge. An article written by me can be found here [in German].

...another big deal since the system stands and falls with the energy hoax. It should be well-known latest since Nikola Tesla, that unlimited energy is available for free in the entire universe, but even a development that would only be an intermediate step to free energy is highly dangerous for 'The Monopoly'.

This fraud has several layers, just like historical lies. First of all, there is the question if crude oil is of fossil origin, or re-originate over and over again through tectonic movements and the resulting high pressure. In the early 1970s horror scenarios were circulated, that all crude oil would be used up by the year 2000. But still it springs and springs on. Our dependency to "fossil" energy sources, combined with the Fiat-money-system, is a genius slavery machine of course. Alternatives are forbidden.

So the stupid „citizen“ [aka: consumer] needs to give away more and more of his increasingly limited available income at the gas station, and for heating and electrical power. That the available income decreases is no "conspiracy theory", but a plain mathematical fact.

While the total amount of money – more precisely debt – is increasing exponentially, the masses of course have to generate the interest on interest, and while "experts" argue about deflation or inflation, the vast majority of have-nots are kept in poverty through deflation, and those who were able to save money on their account, are being dispossessed through inflation. Someone has calculated at some point how much money makes you be on the winning side, meaning you cash in more from your interest than you have to pay in dues. If I recall it right, it was around 500.000 Euros.

But due to the fact that our well-paid "experts" don't want to give the show away, they tell the people fairy tales. One is about limited fossil energy sources, which simply have to get more and more expensive, and to go the extra mile the story of the "manmade climate warming" was fabricated. So one litre of gasoline, that in fact would only cost a few Cents, will soon probably cost two Euros plus. And people like Gaddafi or Saddam Hussein, who tried to oppose this looting system, are consistently called "new Hitlers".

And to drive the system of slavery to perfection, our ultramodern cars still run on an engine based on a concept, that's more than a hundred years old, and with a gearbox that has some totally "inevitable" attrition that – what a coincidence – keeps causing even more costs for the "owner". And so we're running and running the rat race, and things accelerate more and more and more...

Since everything bears a relation to all, I now revert to the "darkest chapter of German history": the "National Socialistic terror regime".

From 1871 on, in the German Kaiser-Empire, science and research had already reached a level unrivalled by anyone, but from 1933 on different paths were taken. It had become clear that world enemy number 1 would not tolerate, that the diligence and inventiveness of the German people would yet again have a German Empire emerge to global power. They would initiate another big war, including the mobilization of almost the entire world.

So something totally new was tackled when "Operation Ancestor's Heritage" started searching the entire world, especially Tibet, for the traces of lost ancient high civilisations and their forgotten technologies. And they made a find.

As a result, Hitler was told in 1944 that there will be no car, bus or train using conventional engines within about 5 years after the ultimate victory (which was still possible at that time, despite all Allied propaganda). Another result was the development of the real wonder weapons, which weren't deployed on a wider scale anymore, for reasons I will elucidate on another occasion.

Mankind's energy problem is already solved in a perfect way. This and more incredibilities will be revealed in the near future. Only then mankind will finally be free and unlock its real potential, under the peaceful leadership of the revived German Reich.

The final phase of "The Controversy of Zion" more than all is of spiritual kind. Initiates knew even before Max Planck that the material world is just a small excerpt of reality. Matter is nothing more than compressed energy. The primary side creating the matter is the spirit. So whoever wants to rule mankind, needs to control its spirit and thoughts.

Why was the connection of man to its spiritual part cut off by the so-called 'Age of Enlightenment'? Part of it is, that religions nowadays worship a God that is aloof from the world. Why does Hollywood picture a sick, callous and deserted world, where in the end some weird mutants fight over the last water hole? And as a sideline, there are UFO's attacking with slimy aliens inside that want to eat us all up.

The subtle message is: you are helpless creatures, in a hostile world full of threats and deprivation. You are separated from creation and at the mercy of all of this. But we are immortal spiritual beings, who create their own reality day after day. In the moment of our death, which in fact is just moving us to the other side, we will not be confronted with a furious God, but we will have to give account for this life to ourselves.

Maybe that was the reason for Winston Churchill saying to his personal doctor, when he was dying: »What a fool I was.«. Guess he had sneaked a peek at the other side.

None of all can be about allocation of blame. All of us, including the one writing these lines, have played our part in making the world the way it is today. But we can learn from mistakes and from history.

David Rockefeller had said back in the 1990s, that all the world needs is the right major crisis, and Nations will accept the New World Order. Not only the curtains on the global theatre stage are burning, it's the entire stage that's blazing fiercely, and the stage directors are all excited, moving the scenery around.

Here's Assad, who certainly did not use lethal gas on his own people. Too bad Assad wasn't as easy to break as Gaddafi, though Zion had paid for such a nice "revolt". Well, whatever. We need an Armageddon, to finally proceed to world war three (though WW II technically isn't over) and send a couple of billion souls to kingdom come. Of course we will do that in the name of "freedom, humanity and democracy".

All this insanity will be over. Many ask when? I say to you: when you decide to. Our protecting power, the unconquerable army of the German Reich, is ready. It will show itself to the world when we have proven worthy.

The great statesman Adolf Hitler, unlike democratic politicians, always told his German people the truth:

»I want to be cherished honourably by the past and by the future, and cherished with me shall be the German people. Today's generation bears Germany's fate, Germany's future, or Germany's fall. Our opponents cry out today that Germany shall perish, and Germany can only give them one answer: Germany will live and that's why Germany will prevail.«

The descendants of the disengagement movement have completely infiltrated the system "FRG" and other global structures. What Zion did to the Reich, is what our people have mastered to perfection. Quite a few FRG-Germans will wonder after the change, who might have been his colleague or superior.

The best comment I ever found on this subject:

»I don't understand how people can still doubt the disengagement movement of the German Reich. There are so many hints, evidence and literature about that. One who still doubts it is either not correctly informed, or falls for the evident events of the big multi-media-show. As X had said already, it's not about a stadium or some other single event. The main objective for the day X is much bigger. On the one hand it's about the revision of common history, along with the rehabilitation of the Reich, and thus the entire German people. And on the other hand it's about the elimination of all structures hostile to the Reich, for the sake of all veracious, righteous and genuine people on this planet.

There is no way to see through the intentions of the Empire-Germans in this struggle. We simply don't have the overview of all covertly proceeding processes. The only thing we can do to support our fellow Germans in the prohibited areas, is to offer our unconditional solidarity along with our constant faith in a not so far away goal: the restoration of the Empire in freedom, truth and love!

This is what they fought for, and still fight for today. This faith shall not be taken from us through deceptions. It will happen, it will work out – in the end there will be victory! Be brave!" (on TerraGermania [in German])

German Country – The Global League

Germany, Germany, dear homeland, keeper of light, eternal Empire.
Until the loyal arise, we will wait with our sweep.

There shall be no borders anymore, just freedom for all people.
Primal word will make the world tremble, but woods and meadows still snooze.

Wise words and heavenly thinking will soon erupt with power.
In memory of old songs the entire world sings in chorus.

No clamour anymore and no cursing, only freedom, sense and happiness.
Once the millions call for us, salvation will return with us.

Although many tongues lie, although poverty and envy reigns,
We want to tell the world, that light and peace are not far.

All mankind we want to serve, every being is a brother!
Not reign, but love – word and deed of the true Christ.

False Gods, malicious tongues, we advise to understand:
German honour, German thinking, can't and will not perish.

Light and truth will prevail, dark powers your end is near.
No more waiting; no we plough, bringing out the seeds of good.

If darkness refuses to make way, we will powerfully chase it off.
Not the earth, nor the stars, will be a safe shelter for the deceivers.

Our weapons are forged, millions stand by!

But the work can only succeed if the world cries out for freedom.

Salvation & Blessedness

End of Part 2

By Maria Lourdes

In his article „Since 05.45 h fire has now been returned” our Blog-Commentator „Kurzer” investigates the historical narrative about Hitler-Germany, High Finance, psychology of the masses and other legacies. Rarely an article here on the lupocattivoblog had that many hits and visitors, as “Kurzer’s” elaborations.

A difficult topic that also prompted heavy controversies; which motivated “Kurzer” to this final statement.

But at first – for a generally better understanding of the subject matter – I would like to recommend Larry Summers’ [a commentator’s alias] article here on the lupocattivoblog headlined “Die reichsdeutsche Absetzbewegung” [“The Disengagement movement of Citizens of the German Reich”, highly recommended to those who master German].

I would like to particularly thank “Kurzer” again for his work, says Maria Lourdes!

From Larry Summers’ piece:

Since 1937 Germany had installed the so-called „Reichsforschungsrat” [The Reich’s Research Council], whose planning office was assigned to a man called Dr. Osenberg. All researching entities of the Reich were directed by this particular planning office, as well as all technical colleges and universities, and all research and development facilities of the German industry and military.

This decisive measure made it easier to coordinate the development of high technology, though it couldn’t avert defeat anymore. Osenberg’s office kept account of all research: status, employees, location. Of course Dr. Osenberg was of highest interest for the Allies. He was captured, interrogated several times and most likely tortured!

In one of his interrogations he made very clear, that »in the war, would it have lasted another six months, the Germans would have been in a position to deploy the most parts of their new developments against the Allies, and would have reversed the course of war due to this technical superiority.«

This statement of a man, who more than anybody else had an overview over the German developments, makes one consider: What if the Americans did not find everything?

- What if particularly efficient technology was hidden or moved?
- What if the smartest peers had been taken to safety in time?
- What if they had built laboratories and production facilities there?
- Pure imagination or “wishful thinking of a few diehards”?

Part 3: Epilogue

By Kurzer

The number of readers of the article published on this website on 1 Sep has reached a scale, even Maria was surprised about. The whole thing was potentiated by other bloggers reblogging it on their websites. In the comment-section here, as well as elsewhere I met a lot of approval and of course criticism, questions and doubt regarding parts of my elaborations. That's why I would like to take a stand with this article.

Those who paid attention reading the article must have understood that I don't care two figs about “xenophobia”, “hatred for strangers” and “agitation” against whom ever. I did not write against anyone, but just about certain deeds and historic events, which are researchable for anybody.

I explained that science nowadays clearly serves the NWO. In no way do I damn science, research and theory in general, but right the opposite. Only one hundred years ago these had reached a level in the German Reich, which enabled it to become the biggest economic power in the world - in a peaceful way.

This was also possible through scientific preparatory work on the best of all educational systems worldwide. In 1945 all this changed to the contrary. Creating political and ideological illiterates through education, especially at universities, became a mainstay of this sick society.

And at no point I claimed that we will automatically be unshackled from this nightmare of mankind's malice, that this world ever more becomes since the beginning of the more and more aggressively practised “democratisation”.

What I said is, that a human being is a spiritual being. It creates its own circumstances of life and its own “problems”, which actually are nothing more, but an invitation to change something in our lives. The word coincidence [German: “Zufall” - literally: ‘fall upon’] used to have a different meaning, than the way it is interpreted nowadays.

The principle of cause and effect makes something ‘fall upon’ us. But many people still live the mentality of saying: »I'm not doing so well and that's someone else's fault.«. A very good example is the way we deal with “illness”.

Many refuse to understand that it's just a special programme of nature, to tell the human being, that it needs to change for the sake of taking a corrective action. Curiously enough, it seems to be more pleasant to ignore that and fight symptoms instead.

One swallows chemicals with numerous side effects, that can then be treated with even more chemicals, and what just takes the biscuit is, that the oncologist may help one to pass on through poisoning by giving chemical therapy. But well, the white coat is a studied doctor; he must of course know what's good for us, right?

None of us can change the world. But everyone can change himself, realise the mistakes he made and learn from them. Everyone can motivate his close social environment to change, by being an inspiring example and by his own actions. That process started with me nineteen years ago, and since then I experienced truly incredible things - as incredible as the Third Power being a reality, seems to be to most of the people.

One doesn't have to be a "conspiracy theorist", all you need to do is go and start researching the openly accessible sources on topics like Operation Highjump, Antarctica-Treaty and Enemy State Clauses.

A wise man once said: »Black holes can only be proven by interaction.« I have elaborated on the high number of interactions in detail (incl. reliable sources), but still there are people asking: »If this Third Power with all its military options is real, why don't they show up and save us?«

Well...? Let's put it this way: If it wasn't real, Germans would have become nearly extinct exotics in a zoo by now. The clearly worded plans to exterminate the German people – Morgenthau-plan, Kaufman-plan – are no crazy conspiracy theories, but experienced sledgehammer-reality for very many Germans until 1947.

Only the mess of the Allied Operation Highjump in early 1947 changed that, but for a few decades they have now been working on the extinction of Germans in a more subtle way.

By the way, did anyone notice, that during the last two campaigns against Iraq everyone used the term "Allied Forces"? And did anyone notice, that there was an incredibly high number of losses through "friendly fire"? It occurred that US-fighter-pilots, to their utter astonishment, were faced with flying discs appearing out of nowhere, and were warned to open fire, because that would spell their end. If the oh-so-invincible US-cowboy dared to pull the trigger, his jet exploded instantly. He wasn't killed by a superior fire power, but he killed himself.

Technologically the German Reich was decades ahead of the Allies in 1945, and due to exponential increase of knowledge it is centuries ahead today. This doesn't even consider the other perceptions you achieve, by acting constructively and in conformity with the cosmos.

Let's take a little side-trip. It's true that we're sometimes being told the absolute truth, or maybe a part of it covered in layers of lies, in the Allied licensed baiting and lying media in the FRG. Some will find one or the other documentation, preferably broadcasted around midnight, on minor channels or on ARTE [state run, but small audience], that make one wonder.

For example the documentation I had mentioned called "War made easy – When Presidents and Pundits keep Spinnung us to Death", or that US-TV-Show I can't recall the name of right now, but it was all about the "alien" UFOs. I recall an episode about a military fort in the sixties, that was attacked by a stealth-airplane, constructed by a German scientist.

The commander held an inflammatory speech in front of a group of US-scientists and accused those, who had been working for more than ten years, trying to figure out the secrets of a recovered "alien" disc, of total incompetence. And he told them, that from now on their German colleague, who had just finished a different project, will take care of it.

When he took a look at the object, he told his totally astonished employer: »Your people are on the wrong path. That thing you can only fly with mental faculties.« So two sisters with medial capabilities were located, and they took their place inside the disc. As, after a while, nothing had happened and they checked on them, they were dead.

So what does that tell us? This technology is even safe of fraudulent use. Only someone of absolute pure mind, and in harmony with the laws of the universe – which the author of these lines is a fair way off too yet –, can fly such a thing.

Back in the sixties a UFO ran rigs around the Americans, appearing right on top of a nuclear base, opening and closing the rocket-silos at will, and leaving the main computer on the base with nothing but a blinking cursor.

If the leaders of the Reich order the heirs of Otto Skorzeny, Panzermeyer and Joachim Nowotny to act now, then our protecting power will neutralise the military forces of US-rael - which are laid out to bring death and destruction to the world - so swiftly, that our boys will ask their leaders what to do after breakfast.

Their real problem though is much bigger. It's us.

What would a German do, when a more or less gigantic flying disc, showing a Balkenkreuz or Swastika on it, would show up in the sky above him? Would he yell "Get off, Nazis!", would he run paralysed by fear, or would he say: "Finally!"? Everybody may give some thought to the most likely reaction of the people and their personal environments.

There is a scenario that, following a global infrastructural crash, caused by the precipitate enlightened ones, there will happen to be about two years of chaos and anarchy. That time period would be necessary for the totally brain-washed and re-educated Germans to finally wake up and welcome their true liberators.

My point of view on that: could be, but doesn't have to be like that. If we manage to wake up a critical mass of Germans by our leading example, a lot of misery could be spared from many beings. The German people have made such incredible sacrifices throughout history. So I say: enough!

Even if it might be asleep, the spirit of the German people is still alive. That was clearly visible when the "flood of the century" hit Germany in 2002. I remember a broadcast from near Halle (Saale), where locals were standing shoulder to shoulder packing sand bags and a blond giant - the Fuehrer would have been proud of him - spoke into the cam: »This is our town and we will hold that dam!«

Just like a friend of mine from the mentioned region experienced local solidarity and mutual assistance undreamed of, when the floods hit again in 2013. There were students, that had asked to be released from school to help with the flood prevention, fourteen year old girls were dragging sand bags, who under "normal" circumstances would have collapsed from just looking at them, and still they refused to take breaks, and there was no moaning, nor complaints.

Characteristically the multicultural society oh-so-praised by the media was unseen in those critical situations. The absence of our foreign fellow inhabitants on fighting the deluge of water was commented on in the best possible way by Michael Winkler in his daily commentary [Michael Winkler comments daily in a quite acrimonious way on occurrences in German society and politics and contemporary events - in German, but a real treat for anyone who masters the language]. In defence of those very few: in certain regions the only non-Germans that came to help their fellow German neighbours were the diligent Vietnamese.

When a few years ago there was a power outage in the middle of the winter in a rural area in northwestern Germany, and some villages happened to be completely cut off due to the enormous masses of snow, the locals moved together, shared their availabilities and assisted each other. So it seems like on certain occasions those (actually rather benighted and for the most part educated to act like zombies) Germans, out of nowhere, remembered the true essence of their people buried deep down inside.

In my opinion everyone who has woken up, shall do one's bit to make this temporary awakening a permanent condition, so we can prove ourselves worthy for "day X"...

...and for the words of the greatest son, the German people had in its history, to become true:

»I want to be cherished honourably by the past and by the future, and cherished with me shall be the German people. Today's generation bears Germany's fate, Germany's future, or Germany's fall. Our opponents cry out today that Germany shall perish, and Germany can only give them one answer: Germany will live and that's why Germany will prevail.«

Then the Gods will dawn
When the Valkyries conclude the council,
When Haunebu is ready for the great flight,
When the Vrill is unleashed for the final assault,
When the four trombones resound,
When all eyes will look to the south and all mankind will witness
how the last great battle of lies will spark,
When the wind of the south will turn to be the wind of the north,
When Haunebu becomes the great V in a shining sea of blaze in the eternal light,
When the flight of the Valkyrie will proclaim the victory of the eternal truth,
Then the Gods of a new era will dawn.

Akon von Jorusa

Appeal for reason.

These lines are particularly for our readers from the “other” side.

There will be upheavals in the near future, in this country and also worldwide, that do not compare to anything ever seen before. The so-called “turnaround” in 1990 was just an enactment on the way to the NWO; an event that had been prepared by intelligence over many years. The Stasi had not infiltrated the “citizen’s movement”, but founded it in the early 1980s as “swords to ploughshares”.

Since numbers are very important to the satanic Zion agenda, the fall of the Berlin wall on 9 November 1989 was precisely planned for that date. The fact that this - as well as many other parts of the agenda - was unknown to those participating in that “project”, does not speak against that assertion, but only illustrates how effective a system based on initiation works. True to the motto: All of that is proxy, but not everyone needs to know.

Me and many others who have woken up do not only believe, but know, that in the rows of those still carrying this system actively, talking about those employed at certain institutions and boards, there is quite a bit of an uproar. Many believers of the system start anticipating that something is going terribly wrong, and that in the end they are going to lose just like any other.

You should be aware of the fact, that the inevitable crash of the system will also crush your pensions and other privileges you might have, compared to other inmates of the FRG-prison. And you should think of the future, your children will face in the world that’s looming ahead.

A drastic example for the lack of knowledge about what’s really going on, even on “high” levels, is this:

A German worried about the conditions in this country talks to the chief of the criminal investigation department, well known to him, in a major German City. They talk about the exponentially growing issues in certain parts of the society, for example the growing criminality through immigration, the incredible debt problems, and much more. And they talk about, that there is no end in sight, and that loads of the issues seem to even be intensified with a sledgehammer.

To the final question, where all of this is going to lead to, the police-chief responds:

»Look, I have no idea what they’re planning for us.«

Well, if that doesn’t sound the alarm, you should really take your time and read the essay again, and grasp what it’s all about. You don’t need to study all sources, but you need to pay close attention to a key document, that shows which mechanisms of power work on achieving which objectives. It’s the Rakovsky-interview.

There it is clearly stated: It's about absolute power and control.

It's absolutely unrecognisable for the single person, to realise the way this "game" works, due to the long time periods. Ideologies, like Marxism for instance, were just a means to an end.

Just as a side note, the man with the alias Karl Marx, with his gigantic criticism of capitalism, who equals entrepreneurs with capitalists/bankers, completely dismissed that big money is the real profiteer of the game; which is something that totally escaped the attention of all those well-paid experts in the world.

Rakovsky also reveals that the entire free masonry, with all their initiation grades, has only been serving the purpose of achieving absolute power for those he refers to as "Those". I highly recommend reading the interview, even to those who believe to know. Think and draw your conclusions. No need to ask the Master Mason, he will credibly deny, due to lack of context.

Let me add something crucial again from my essay:

Satan, the Demon who had promised his "chosen people" the rulership, or better call it governship, over the entire world and the rest of mankind, has been relieved from his duty on this planet a few years ago. He was allowed to go on the rampage here for several thousand years, so the fallen souls (us included) may gain experience and learn from it.

»Jesus said to them [the jews]: You belong to your father, the devil, and you want to carry out your father's desires. He was a murderer from the beginning, not holding to the truth, for there is no truth in him. When he lies, he speaks his native language, for he is a liar and the father of lies.« (John 8-44)

In that time for sure, Satan was the Lord of this material world. Otherwise, back in the desert, he couldn't have offered Jesus the rulership in exchange for accepting a subordinate role to him. Since a true Aryan wouldn't even do that in the middle of a Dark Era, they eventually nailed him to the cross. But Jesus also said, that the kingdom of God would be given to a different people. This he told two Teutons, mercenaries for the Roman Empire.

It is also clear that the boss of the enlightened world leaders had to make way, when you realise this:

In the years following 2001, the campaigns in Afghanistan and Iraq in "response" to the 9/11 "terror attacks" went like clockwork, but at some point everything started to falter – like we see in Syria right now. The great coordinator is gone, but since there seems to be no plan B they just keep doing as ever. The heedlessness in the "financial markets", the Strauss-Kahn-scandal, all that shows, how the powers to be increasingly lock horns with each other.

At long last even system-believers in this country start holding their feet still, and some of their superiors even put out feelers to the counterside. The most perfidious part though is, that the ordinary people, including prosecutors, judges and "public officials" (which in fact are just employees of the FRG-administration controlled by the Allies), are still being sent on hounding Nazis, although it is fairly clear by now:

The train has left the station; everything is over and done with.

Here's some good advice: Remember who you really are; recollecting Germans, who had gone astray.

To live, means learning from your mistakes; you will always come out stronger in the end. Of course the revived German Reich will also have an administration, but people loyal to the Reich will be working there. Anyone can prove being worthy by doing the right thing. Now.
